SAYS THE GIRLS ARE MISTREATED

Woman Teacher Quits Job at Industrial Home.

SHE MAKES CALL ON THE GOVERNOR

Tells Him of Inside Workings of Institution.

Superintendent Dye Gets in a Denial. Says the Emmons Girl, One of Those Mentioned by the Teacher as Mistreated by a Man at the Home, Had Not Been Mistreated While an Inmate.

Columbus, O., May 13.—Miss Lydia Falkenbach of this city, a teacher of vocal music at the Girls' Industrial school at Delaware, has resigned her position. Following her resignation she called upon Governor Harmon and made complaints reflecting on the management of the institution.

Miss Falkenbach charged that Frankie Emmons, an 18-year-old girl who had been sent to the school from Cincinnati, had been ill treated by a man connected with the home, and her charge, if true, would cause a scandal at the institution, as they are of a more sensational nature than any yet mentioned in connection with the home.

One charge was that Mary Skallock, a 15-year-old Columbus girl, who was suffering from tuberculosis, had not received proper medical care, as was disclosed when she ran away 10 days ago and was found in Columbus by the probation officer. Other complaints were of too severe punishments.

Governor Harmon declined to discuss Miss Falkenbach's talk with him. Superintendent Dye said over the telephone there was no truth in the complaint that the Emmons girl had been abused or mistreated in any way. He said the Skallock girl had been given the best of medical attention. He also said a report that a whip made of cords was used at the school was untrue, and that the switchings administered were probably not as severe as those the reporter had received from his mother in his youth.

A Change Probable.

It is expected that an immediate reorganization of the Girls' Industrial school will take place as a result of the frequency and multiplicity of charges made against Superintendent T. F. Dye.

Governor Harmon telephoned Mr. Dye to come to the city this afternoon, when a conference will be held on the latest charges preferred against the superintendent by Miss Falbenbach.

Governor Harmon will not force a change on the ground that he credits all the gossip and stories upon the management of the institution but rather because the frequency of these publications have served to destroy Mr. Dye's usefulness.

Governor Harmon is disposed to give Mr. Dye credit for his general management of the institution and the reforms he has inaugurated since he took charge five years ago.

Terribly Beaten.

The Shallock girl's story as told to a United Press reporter at Saint Anthony's hospital, today, is typical of the complaints which have filtered into the state-house for some months past.

"I hope to die, if I ever go back to that place again," she said, after being assured that she could talk freely. "The eighteen months that I spent there is a nightmare.

"About two months ago, I saw Florence Austen, a chum of mine, who is still there, beaten until one of the other girls had to dress her back. It was cut to threads. Mr. Dye beat her himself, as he did all the white girls.

"They have quit the paddle up there now and use a heavy stick with leather throngs on the end. It cuts like fire. They have the girl undress and put on her night gown and then beat her.

"One of the meanest punishments they have is 'the attic.' They keep the girls up-stairs in a pitch-dark room all day and till nearly midnight on bread and water. There is no bed or chair and you get faint before they let you out. They do this for the most trifling things.

Dye's Inhumanity.

"I never had no trouble with Mr. Dye but once. Just before I ran away I went to his office to ask to have my neck bandaged. I had had no new rags for weeks—just the girls' underskirts, and most of them had the itch during the epidemic that was on then. He took me by the arm and threw me out. That night I ran away and walked to Columbus."

The Shallock girl was sent up from Columbus, is eighteen and pretty. The Saint Anthony hospital authorities like her, and medical treatment there is gradually curing the neck affliction which, when she came, appeared fatal.

INDEPENDENCE CLUB A WRECK

Magnificent Club-House Leased to Technology.

New York, May 13.—The National Independence club, social adjunct to the Independence party of W. R. Hearst, is practically a wreck. The magnificent club-house in Gramercy park, which was scarcely able to muster a corporal's guard after the election of Taft, and the poor showing of the Independence ticket last fall, has been leased to the Technology club, a college organization.

L. J. O'Reilly, Hearst's confidential man, says that the club was a flat failure, but that it has not affected the Independence party.

Mrs. Burdette Stricken.

Los Angeles, Calif., May 13.—The friends of Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, wife of the minister-author are alarmed today over her condition. Mrs. Burdette was suddenly stricken last night and for hours was unconscious. Her husband has been ill recently and the care falling upon his wife is believed to have caused her collapse.

THREATENED BY DISASTER

Is Great Iron Ore Industry of Land,

IF IRON'S PUT ON FREE LIST

That's the Expressed View of Senator Burrows.

Tells of 600,000,000 Tons of Cuban Ore Owned by the Pennsylvania Steel Company That Would Be Brought in To Compete Against American Ore—American Supply Will Last 6,000 Years.

Washington, May 13.—Disaster will threaten the great iron ore industry in this country, if the Aldrich tariff of twenty-five cents a ton fails of adoption, according to Senator Burrows, of Michigan.

In a strong speech to the senate today, he said the iron ore mines in this country could not overcome cheap ore or high grades from the inexhaustible deposits in Cuba.

Burrows pointed out that there has been a tariff on iron ore since the foundation of the government. The Wilson and Dingley laws fixed it at forty cents a ton, but in the Payne bill, the ore was placed on the free list.

The senate bill makes the duty twenty-five cents a ton. Free ore, Burrows declared, would cause the government to lose more than $300,000 a year in revennes. He said that the industry existed in twenty-nine states and territories, where there were 525 mines, which produced 52,000,000 tons of ore in 1907, valued at $132,000,000.

Owned by Americans.

There was in northern Cuba a deposit of 600,000,000 tons of high grade ore, owned in part by the Pennsylvania Steel company. With ore on the free list, Burrows asserted, Cuban ore would compete with the Lake Superior product at Pittsburg. The freight rate from Lake Superior to Pittsburg was $2.28 and from Cuba to Pittsburg $2.35 a ton. The Cuban ore would be gathered up in steam shovels, which meant an exceedingly cheap production, and wages there were much lower than in this country.

Denying the statement that the iron ore supply in this country would be exhausted soon, Burrows quoted the geological survey, to show that there was available in this country 3,500,000,000 tons of higher grade ore and 72,000,000,000 tons of lower grade. At the present rate of exhaustion, he said, this supply would last about 6,000 years.

Burrows made an earnest plea for the miners, who he said, would be affected disastrously by free ore.

Senator Rayner, of Maryland, argued in favor of placing ore on the free list.

THEIR PATHWAY FLOWER STREWN

While Cannons Boom and Whistles Shrilly Shriek

WELCOME TO THE WRIGHTS TODAY

The Homecoming of the Aviators Is a Glad One.

Along a Causeway Lined on Either Side by Cheering Townsmen and Waving Bunting the Brothers and Their Sister Are Driven to the Family Home on Hawthorne Street Where Reception Is Held.

Dayton, O., May 13.—Amid the booming of cannon and shriek of factory whistles, Orville and Wilbur Wright, accompanied by their sister, Miss Catherine, arrived at noon over the Panhandle from New York. They were met at the station by hundreds of cheering friends and neighbors and escorted in carriages to the Wright home, No. 7 Hawthorne avenue, along a causeway lined on either side by cheering townsmen and waving bunting. School children threw garlands in their pathway.

The Wrights will go to Washington about June 1 to arrange contracts with the United States for the American rights to their invention. They will also take up plans looking to the enlargement of their plant in Dayton, which now has a capacity of about sixty machines. This was the statement given out upon their arrival.

The reception to the Dayton heroes was informal. Thursday evening a reception will be given at the home. Elaborate preparations are in progress for the celebration by Dayton and the entire country which will take place June 17 and 18.

Wrights Reach Dayton.

When two plainly-dressed, serious men stepped from the train and assisted Miss Catherine Wright, their sister, from the steps, the heroes were home.

"There they are."

It was the shout of many voices, the high treble of women, the deep diaphason of men. Handkerchiefs fluttered, flags waved, cheers arose.

Out of the edge of the crowd stepped the aged figure of Dr. Milton Wright, the father of the boys, his eyes dimmed by tears of joy.

"My boys, my boys," he managed to say as his arms clasped Wilbur's neck, to release him an instant later and clasp Orville, who had been his mother's favorite, close to his heart. Then came the daughter. It was the hour of triumph. The picture lasted but a moment. Then friends intervened.

Home, Sweet Home.

The program of the West Side neighbors must be carried out The modest fellow townsmen were escorted to carriages. The procession moved off amid wild cheering.

"Home, Sweet Home, 'Mid Pleasures and Palaces," the crowd had caught the air.

There were tears in the eyes of Orville. At last, like a flood, it come upon them that their neighbors went farther than love. Theirs was adoration.

Turning into Hawthorne avenue, the long procession of carriages reached the residence.

Albert Shearer, an elderly six-foot neighbor, made his first speech It wasn't oratory, it was plain devotion, wrapped up in the words of a friends who had given the boys their first job twenty-seven years ago.

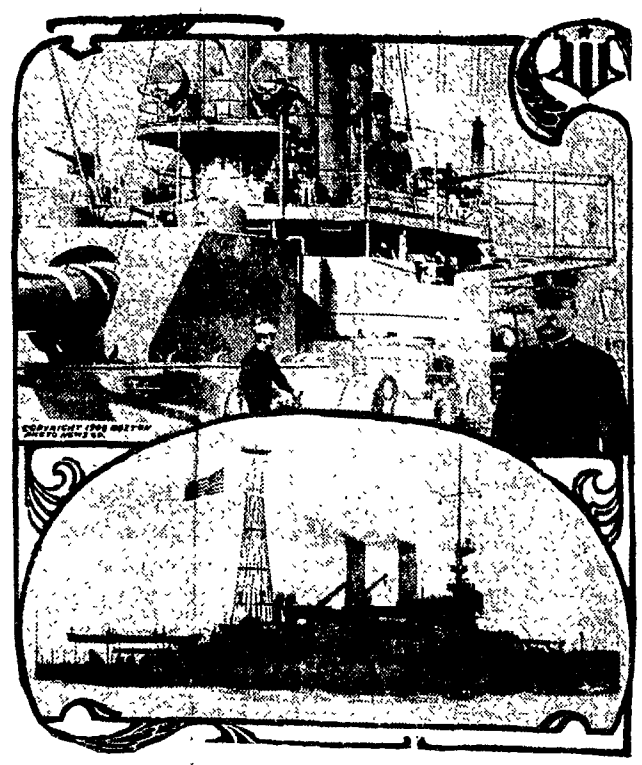
LONELY LIBERTY IS TO HAVE COMPANION

Massive Bronze Statue To Greet Incoming Vessels.

New York, May 13.—The lonely statute of "Liberty" that guards New York harbor is to have for a companion a massive bronze American Indian. The greatness of the red man was the topic of discussion at a dinner given by Rodman Wanamaker to Colonel William F. Cody. General Horace Porter, general Nelson Miles, and a half hundred other old Indian fighters, were in attendance.

The idea of the Indian statue was advanced by Wanamaker and was enthusiastically endorsed. Steps will be taken at once to bring about the erection of a statue of an Indian with outstretched arms, welcoming the world, and thus to relieve the long vigil of the liberty goddess.

BATTLESHIP MISSISSIPPI AS SEEN BY THOUSANDS ON NATCHEZ CRUISE



After the battleship, Mississippi, reached New Orleans on her cruise up the Mississippi river to Natchez, Captain Fremont, who is in command of the vessel, received a report of the depth of water in the river that satisfied the most skeptical that the big ship could steam to Natchez in safety. Captain Burgess, U. S. A. engineering corps, reported a minimum depth of forty-three feet and a width between banks of 600 feet between New Orleans and Natchez. Captain M. J. Gibbons, one of the most experienced pilots on the river, was detailed to take the warship on the upriver trip. Tens of thousands of people, many of whom had come hundreds of miles, lined the banks of the stream and gazed in wonder upon the battleship, the first modern man-o'-war to navigate the Father of Waters.

STEALING IS OF LONG DURATION

Sugar Trust Has Been Active Score of Years,

HEPBURN TELLS PRESIDENT TAFT

Former Investigates the Matter Years Ago.

Finds One Man That Made $3,500 by Getting One Per Cent. of the Duty He Saved the Importer. This Alone Would Mean a Steal of $350,000—Importers Robbing Uncle Sam Systematically.

Washington, May 13.—Ex-Representative Hepburn of Iowa told President Taft today that the stealings of the sugar trust, by means of fraudulent weight, has been going on in New York, to his personal knowledge, for nearly twenty years. Eighteen years ago Hepburn was a member of a committee appointed to investigate the customs bureau of New York, and upon that occasion discovered the most flagrant evidences of theft on the part of the importers and the men in the government employ, that were accepting bribes from them for making fraudulent entries, and reports of sugar received from abroad at the port.

"I called to tell the president," said Hepburn, "that if he was interested in the matter, it might be a good idea to hunt up the report that Whitehead Chance and myself turned in at that time. We discovered evidence that one man alone, a weigher, had received $3,500 from a certain importer, under an agreement he had with him to be paid one per cent. of the amount of duty that he saved through his manipulation The importer in this case must have benefitted to the extent of $350,000, and this in the course of one year."

Child Kidnaped.

Dayton, O., May 13.—An unknown man this afternoon snatched little Seth, four, son of Mrs. Walter Hardesty, from a fence, rushed with him to an automobile and disappeared from the child's residence, No. 27 south Barney street, up Third street, enroute toward the center of Dayton.

Ex-State Senator Dead.

Troy, O., May 13.—John W. Morris, seventy, state senator for two terms, mayor of Troy for four terms and first exalted ruler of the Elks, dropped dead today here of heart failure.

DARK STREAK IN COUNT TOLSTOY

Which Goes To Indicate Moral Perversion,

BUT IT WILL NOT PROVE DANGEROUS

As It Appeals Only to the Decadent.

The Usual Effect of Prolonged and Excessive Indulgence in Tolstoyism on American Disciples Is Comic Rather Than Serious—Colonel Roosevelt Resents View That Bryan Represents Peace.

New York, May 13.—Count Leo Tolstoy's championship of the candidacy of William Jennings Bryan in the last presidential election is made the subject of an attack by ex-President Roosevelt on both Bryan and Tolstoy, the influence of the latter of whom is declared to be for evil. The attack is in the form of an editorial in the current issue of the Outlook.

In combating Tolstoy's statement that Mr. Bryan represented the party of peace, Mr Roosevelt says:

"Now there was but one point in the platform of either political party in 1908 which contained any element of menace to the peace of the world. This was the plank in the Bryanite platform which demanded the immediate exclusion by law of all Asiatic laborers and therefore of the Japanese Coupled with this was the utterly meaningless plank, about the navy, which was, however, intended to convey the impression that we ought to have a navy only for the defense of our coasts, that is, a merely 'defensive' navy, or in other words, a quite worthless navy.

"Any man of common sense, therefore ought to perceive the self-evident fact that the only menace to peace which was contained in any possible action by the American republic was that contained in the election of Mr. Bryan and the attempt to put into effect his platform"

A Man of Genius.

"Count Tolstoy is a man of genius, a great novelist, but I have no question that whatever little influence Tolstoy has exerted among men of action has been great, for I think he has swayed or dominated only the feeble folk and the fantastic folk.

"Strong men may gain something from Tolstoy's moral teachings, but only on condition that they are strong enough and sane enough to be repelled by those parts of his teachings which are foolish or immoral. Weak persons are hurt by the teachings.

AN AWAKENING OF THE PEOPLE

Senatorial Views on Subject of the Tariff.

THOSE TO BLAME FOR HIGH PRICES

Impossible for Congress To Regulate the Prices.

The Cause of High Prices Does Not Lie Behind the Tariff—The Manufacturers and Trusts Are To Blame and Try To Throw the Fault on the Retailers Who Barely Make a Living.

Washington, May 13.—There was another lively discussion in the senate, Wednesday afternoon, over the question of responsibility for the high prices charged consumers in this country.

Senator Hale said that it was impossible for congress to regulate prices, but he was trying to help awaken the American people to consciousness that the cause of high prices did not lie in the tariff rates.

Then Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, raised his eloquent voice in behalf of the men accused of being responsible for the high prices.

Gore said: "I do not appear as champion of the retailers, but I can not sit still, and hear this arraignment of the millions of retail merchants in this country, who are struggling for a bare existence. The manufacturers and trusts are seeking to use the middlemen as shields to protect them from the wrath of the people. The senator from Maine (Hale) has constituted himself foreman of the grand jury in the returning of this wholesale indictment. The retailer has to sell certain makes of hats and shoes and clothing at fixed prices."

Expenses of Retailers.

Gore then called attention to the many expenses that had been paid by retailers from profits on the goods they sold.

Hale said that he appreciated the burdens of the retailer, and added:

"I am not arraigning the retailer as a robber, but our system of trade is such that when the consumer buys from the retailer, he has to pay a price entirely disproportionate to the manufacturer's price."

"I do not believe," said Gore, "that the retailers of any state are robbers. I do not believe that any of them have declared dividends of sixty-six per cent., as has been done by Massachusetts cotton mills."

Gore said that from 1860 to 1880 the price of glass articles had decreased from $1.35 to twenty-five cents a dozen, and he added: "In God's name how long is the tariff to stand on these infant industries?"

Quotes Glass Worker.

In arguing for the old tariff on window glass, Senator Elkins quoted at length from the testimony of A. L. Faulkner, president of the Window Glass Workers of the United States. Elkins said:

"These are the men you want to pay attention to, the workers. Take notice because you will need these people in about a year and a half."

McLaurin suggested that the manufacturers might sell direct to the consumers, but Elkins and Hale said that in the way business was organized that was impossible.

The senate amendments to the Payne bill in paragraphs 98, 99, 101 and 106 of the glass schedules and paragraphs 109 and 110, which are devoted to marble, onyx, alabaster, etc., were agreed to.

The senate then took up paragraph 115½, which places a tariff of twenty-five cents a ton on iron ore. The Dingley rate on ore is forty cents a ton, and the Payne bill places it on the free list.

SEVERAL BOYS BADLY SCALDED

And One May Lose Sight by Explosion of Toy Boiler.

Steubenville, O., May 13.—Robert Everson, aged fourteen, invented and perfected a steam boiler out of a large tin can, the power from which operated a miniature sawmill. While operating the machine today, the boiler burst, scattering the contents of the can in the faces of several playmates who were watching the wheels go round. Emmett Everson, a younger brother, was seriously burned and may lose his sight. Several other boys were scalded.

TUBERCULOSIS COW A MENACE

The Dairy Farm Held Citadel of Consumption.

WAR ON THE GREAT WHITE PLAGUE FAILS

To Check Increase in Ravages of Disease.

Dr. Nathan Straus Writes the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, in Convention in Washington, That Affected Milk Is Chiefly Responsible for Spread of Disease.

Washington, May 13.—That the recent vigorous campaign against tuberculosis, has failed to check the great white plague, was the statement made in a letter from Nathan Straus, the New York philanthropist, read at the opening session of the fifth annual meeting of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, here today.

Straus backs up his assertion by official statistics from the New York health department, showing an increase of thirty-three per cent. in two years, in case of tuberculosis, in the city that Dr. Koch described as leading the whole world in the fight against the disease.

The reason for this failure to make headway, Straus declares, is the neglect of the mischief wrought by the tuberculosis dairy cow. He says that the abolition of tuberculosis will begin, only when it is made a crime to sell milk unless it comes from tuberculin tested cows, or has been properly Pasteurized.

Straus Letter in Part.

Straus' letter is, in part, as follows:

"The situation is far too serious for any further bothering over quibbles about a microscopic difference in the appearance of the tubercle bacilli found in man, and those found in cows. Dr. Mosler, of the department of agriculture, among others, has shown that the two forms of bacillus are due to the media in which they live, and that each changes to the other when transplanted.

"Dr. Revenel of Wisconsin, and Dr. Theobald Smith, of Harvard, have isolated the germs of bovine type in the tissues of children who have been killed by tuberculosis, and I have before me the records of sixty-three cases of children in which the bacilli were undoubtedly bovine.

One May Infect All.

"Investigations in Washington showed one out of every eighteen samples of milk taken to be tuberculous, and that one out of every ten dairies supplied tuberculous milk. Dr. Schroeder has shown that one tuberculous cow may infect the milk of the entire dairy.

"In the light of these facts, I feel that I am amply warranted in urging this association to take the important and necessary step forward, and to attack tuberculosis in its citadel—the dairy farm."

The association, which was called to order at the New Willard, this morning, by Homer Folks, its vice president, will continue in session for the rest of the week. At a public meeting to be held tomorrow evening, addresses will be made by Ambassador Bryce, of Great Britain; Speaker Cannon, Dr. William Osler of Baltimore, and other distinguished men, interested in the work of eradicating the white plague.

HUNDREDS ARE TODAY HUNTING A MAD DOG

Which Bites and Tears Two Children Near Croton.

Newark, O., May 13.—Hundreds of men armed with clubs and guns, are today beating over the northwestern part of Licking county to kill an immense shepherd dog, which, having gone mad, yesterday afternoon frightfully bit and tore the two children of Melville Fisher, a farmer near Croton.

The furious animal first attacked the little girl, a tot of two years. The brother who is but five years of age, came to his little sister's rescue and tried to beat the dog off.

The furious animal turned on the chap and tore his flesh in twenty places. One long ragged wound required fourteen stitches.

The tender flesh of the babe is also horribly torn.

Report Is Denied.

Washington, May 13.—The reported seizure of an American tourist in Morocco was denied today in an official despatch from Minister Gummere, at Tangier.

AGENTS OF WHEAT PEOPLE

Are Giving Out Erroneous Reports of Conditions

EXISTING IN THE WHEAT FIELDS

That's Charge Made by Secretary Wilson Today.

Says Speculators Are Responsible for the Wheat Shortage Scare. Holds That the Government Reports Are the Only Reliable Ones. Says the Conditions Are Growing Better Instead of Worse.

Chicago, May 10.—"Speculators have agents in the wheat fields giving out erroneous reports for business reasons. Those private agents are there to make money for somebody."—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson.

"I'll be back in my office at 9 o'clock. I want to be back in the game right away."—James A. Patten.

The above is the substance of statements reluctantly made by Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and James A. Patten today when the newspaper men discovered that the two recent enemies were in the city simultaneously.

Wilson is here to attend a conference of federal meat inspectors, which was held this morning, while Patten is back from his brief vacation in New Mexico, where he rested after his strenuous bull campaign in the wheat pit.

Wilson discussed the wheat situation cautiously.

Reliable Information.

"I am not mentioning any names," Wilson said, "but I wish to impress on the people that the government agents are giving the only trustworthy reports. The charge that our department gets its reports from inexperienced postmasters is false. Our men are nearly all experts, though here and there you might find a postmaster working for the department. Even so, his word should go farther than that of a private agent in the employ of a speculator.

"Bread costs more because wheat costs more, but I don't see why it should cost more. Conditions are improving instead of growing worse, and the actual conditions are being misrepresented for speculative purposes."

Patten was at his office early today ready to plunge into his recently renewed wheat deal. He refused positively to discuss wheat or to reply to Wilson, merely saying he "felt fine," and fit enough to "lick any man in town."

SUBSTITUTION OF FORAKER ACT

Is Asked by Porto Rican House of Delegates.

Washington, May 11.—The following cablegram has been received by Tullo Larrinaga, resident commissioner of Porto Rico, signed by all the members of the house of delegates of that island:

"For congress and the president—The members of the lower house unanimously resolve to express their strict adherence to all the acts and statements made by their fellow members composing the committee of the house of delegates, in the pending conflict. The delegates ask the president and congress of the United States for the substitution of the Foraker act, of a liberal regime, worthy of the uprightness and democracy of the United States, and of the dignity and capacity of Porto Rico."

FORTY-SEVEN VESSELS SUNK

By a Hurricane Which Sweeps the Calicut Roadstead.

Bombay, May 10.—Reports of the sinking of forty-seven native vessels in a hurricane in the Calicut roadstead reached here today. They storm has swept the whole Malabar coast and the loss of life is heavy.

Many vessels have gone down at other points along the coast. The damage inland is said to be as heavy as on the water.

EXPRESS DRIVER IS KILLED MONDAY

By Same Train Which Kills Mother and Son Last Week.

Dayton, O., May 10.—John Crockett, express driver, was today killed by the same train that a few weeks ago killed his mother and his son at Alexandriaville. Crockett was driving across the Big Four tracks, and on account of his being blind in one eye, is believed to have become confused as a Big Four train bore down upon him. His wagon was demolished and his horse also killed.

REMEMBERS TWO OF HIS FRIENDS

President Taft Selects Judges on His Own Hook.

Washington, May 10.—President Taft settled three federal judgeship contests by sending to the senate the nominations of William I. Grubb of the Northern district of Alabama, George Donworth for the Western district of Washington, and Charles A. Willard as district judge in Minnesota.

Two of the judgeship appointments announced were made personally by the president, the appointees being his close personal friends for many years. Mr. Grubb of Birmingham was formerly a resident of Cincinnati, a Yale graduate with high honors in the class of 1883 and a roommate of the president's youngest brother, Horace D. Taft, for four years at the New Haven university.

HOOSIER KILLED BY HIS OWN TRAP

Man Gets Load of Shot Intended for Chicken Thief.

Logansport, Ind., May 10.—Schuyler Holley was instantly killed by a trap he had prepared to kill a thief that had been raiding his chicken house. He had arranged an old muzzle-loading pistol so that when the door of the chicken house should be opened the pistol should be discharged. He forgot to disconnect the trap before he opened the door of the house and the heavy load of the pistol was discharged into his body. He left a wife and three children.

Three Murderers Indicted.

Hamilton, O., May 11.—The Butler county grand jury indicted Frank Donelly, who killed his wife at Oxford last January, for first degree murder. Mrs. Bertha Sorber, who shot to death her husband, Frank Sorber, because he abused her, was indicted for second degree murder. Constable Stephen Simpson, who killed Garfield Sales, a negro, was indicted for manslaughter.

THE PRESIDENT FAVORS POLICY

Roosevelt's Conservation Policy Is Discussed.

MATTER OF SAVING NATURAL RESOURCES

Taft Thinks Policy Greatest of Last Administration.

Secretary of Interior Ballinger Makes a Statement as to His Recent Action and President Tells Him To Refrain from Further Restorations Until Congress Has Time To Act.

Washington, May 10.—On the best authority, it was learned that President Taft and his cabinet discussed thoroughly the whole Roosevelt conservation policy, when the dispute between Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and Secretary of the Interior Ballinger came up last week in cabinet meeting, and that the president told his advisors that he wanted it understood from the start that he favored the Roosevelt conservation idea, and wanted all of his official family to work to that end.

The conservation idea Taft said, was one of the greatest policies that had been evolved by the last president and he wanted his administration to stand before the people as favoring it.

This brought forth a statement from Secretary of the Interior Ballinger that was almost in the nature of an apology for his action in recently restoring over 3,000,000 acres of land that had been withdrawn under Roosevelt, as containing water-power sites.

Favors the Policy.

Secretary Ballinger stated to the cabinet that he favored conservation, but that he believed it could not be accomplished in the manner in which Garfield, under Roosevelt, had set about to do it. He stated that he would withdraw these large tracts of land from entry again, as soon as he had information that they contained water-power sites, and would make a recommendation to congress that special laws be enacted for the conservation of water-power.

The president, it is understood told the secretary of the interior that he wanted no more withdrawals made, until congress should have time to act. The lands had been withdrawn and the mistake made, if there was a mistake, and it was necessary to take any action that would prevent the land grabbers to get hold of such public domain as the administration wanted to conserve for the people. Secretary Ballinger is understood to have told the president and cabinet that he would be glad to follow out this suggestion.

VENGEANCE IS FLEET FOOTED

Florida Mob Quickly Overtakes Unknown Negro.

HAD ASSAULTED A WHITE WOMAN

Threat Cut and Body Riddled with Bullets.

Sheriff Reaches the Spot Where the Brutal Crime Is Enacted, but Too Late To Save the Victim—Official Is Unable To Secure Clews That Will Enable Him To Prosecute Self-Appointed Justice Dispensers.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 10. An unknown negro who committed an assault upon Mrs. John Deas, wife of a prominent farmer living near Camden, 15 miles from Jacksonville, was captured by a mob of citizens and put to death. The attack was made while the woman was driving her cows home.

Her screams attracted the attention of her son, who went to her rescue, but the negro had escaped. When the sheriff reached the scene the mob had captured the negro, Mrs. Deas had identified him, his throat had been cut and his body riddled with bullets.

The sheriff could gain no information as to the identity of those in the mob and the name of the negro is unknown. The body was brought to Jacksonville.

HE KISSES THE ROBE OF PROPHET

Mehmed V Is Girded with Sword at Constantinople.

Constantinople, May 10. No foreign eyes witnessed the girding of the sword upon Mehmed V, which ceremony took place today in the Mosque Aymob, the single mosque in Constantinople which Christians are not allowed to enter or even congregate about the entrance or courtyard. Following the ceremony there was a gorgeous procession through the principal streets of Stamboul.

The sultan proceeded from the Dolmabagtsche palace to the mosque, which stands at the water's edge, in a launch, and from there, attended by the grand vizier, the sheik ul-islam, the members of the cabinet, the chiefs of the army, the two higher grades of ulemas and many other functionaries, went to the Top Kapou palace, about six miles distant, to kiss the robe of the prophet. The sultan's train made a rich display of fabrics, jeweled arms and fine horses.

The outdoor ceremonies were witnessed by the diplomatic corps from a stand erected about 10 blocks from the mosque.

WILL FARMING PAY?

The following extract from a letter addressed to the editor hits off a situation that The Sun has often commented upon. We trust that some of our readers who can write from personal knowledge will answer this inquiry, which reads:

"I wish some reader with actual experience and a rudimentary fondness for telling the truth would tell me honestly if a farm within fifty miles of the city can be made to pay? I don't mean can it bring me in a fortune, or even make me a comfortable living. But can it (without heavy capital outlay) be made to pay expenses and also for the hire of one or two men? This will interest all the thousands of readers who secretly long to live out of town."

With good milk, eggs, poultry and produce as scarce and high priced as they are in this city the answer would seem to be easy and in the affirmative, and yet hundreds of business and professional men with families growing up under unwholesome conditions in the cities are puzzled by the very doubts which beset this writer. And there are hundreds of humbler wage and salaried workers who are getting nothing but a harsh, precarious living for themselves and their families in town who feel that a life in the country would be better all around if a mere living could be assured.

This, however, they do not know. They do not know where to go if it were assured, they would hardly know what to do even if they had the answer to the first two questions. Owners of unimproved country holdings should see in this situation something of vast advantage to themselves, and of even greater advantage to possible tenants or purchasers, and an incalculable good to the community.—Pittsburg Sun.

Fifteen-Year-Old Girl Rescues the Family.

WIELDS HER AX TO GOOD EFFECT

First Cuts Baby Brother from the Wreckage.

The Mother Is Dead Before Rescue Can Be Effected, but by Chopping Off Her Father's Arm at the Elbow She Frees Him and Then Helps Bind Up His Arm To Prevent Him Bleeding to Death.

Bowden, Pa., May 10.—Mamie Price, fifteen, only member of the family to escape from being pinioned in the ruins of their home when it was wrecked in a storm, secured an ax and guided by the groans of the victims, proceeded to chop them out.

The mother died before she could be released, but the girl succeeded in getting out her baby brother unhurt. She then turned to her father, who was held down by his left arm being caught and mangled under the timbers. Realizing that his arm would have to be amputated anyway, he ordered the girl to sever it at the elbow which with one stroke of the axe she did. She then aided her father in stopping the flow of blood with an improvised tourniquet and then went to the neighbors for help.

LEADERS TO WHOM ARMENIANS LOOK TO RESTORE ORDER

The stricken people of Asiatic Turkey, who have suffered as have none others of modern times at the hands of fanatics, base much of their hope for the restoration of order upon the rule of Kiamil Pasha, the new grand vizier, and Sami Pasha, who has been elevated to the post of minister of police. The Armenians and missionaries believe Tewfik Pasha, late grand vizier, could have checked the massacres if he had cared to do so, and they were but ill disappointed when he temporarily remained in the cabinet after the overthrow of the tyrant, Abdul Hamid. There was therefore great rejoicing when a new grand vizier was named.

BOYLES LODGED IN BIG PRISON

Woman Enacts Dramatic Scene at Separation.

BOYLE SPRINGS HIS SENSATION

Implicates Brother-in-Law of Boy's Father.

Says He Is Guilty of a Murder at Youngstown and Is Head of the Kidnaping Plot—The Story Is Not Upheld by Police Records and Is Denied by the Parties—Claims Forker Kills Daniel Reeble, Jr.

Pittsburg, May 11.—James Boyle and his wife, Helen Boyle, were lodged in the western penitentiary here, the former under a sentence of life imprisonment, the latter sentenced to serve a term of 25 years. The prisoners were taken first to a side room and told that they would have to say goodby, as the rules of the prison would not permit them to see each other again. Mrs. Boyle threw her arms about "Jimmy's" neck and kissed him. She said: "We must take it the best we can."

The prisoners then shook hands and the matron escorted Mrs. Boyle from the room. When she reached the corridor she burst into tears and asked to be permitted once again to see her husband. The request was granted and she again kissed and embraced Boyle. The man maintained his silence and had nothing to say.

Sheriff Chess said he was glad to get the prisoners out of his custody, as he was afraid they would be successful in their announced intention to commit suicide. The sheriff stated he believed Boyle had intended to kill his wife and then commit suicide with the razor the sheriff found in the kidnaper's tie. Neither prisoner would deny that this was true.

Will Not Make Appeal.

It has been decided, so far as Mrs. Boyle is concerned at least, that no appeal will be asked for. At first she contemplated taking an appeal to the superior court in the hope of securing her freedom on another trial, but it was discovered that even should she be liberated she would be returned to Ohio for trial, and it was decided not to appeal.

Sensations followed each other thick and fast. The severity of the sentence appalled Mercer when it was pronounced, being life for the man and 25 years with a fine of $5,000 for the woman. Then came the sensational scene in the courtroom, when both prisoners collapsed and had to be carried from the room. Hardly had they reached their cells when the word was given out that the woman had taken poison during the night and had narrowly escaped death at her own hands, and that a razor had been found concealed in Boyle's clothing. Before this thrill had lost its force Boyle gave out his statement implicating Harry Forker, brother of Mrs. Whitla, in the kidnaping case. In Mercer and Sharon the story does not seem to be generally credited; as the district attorney has no faith in it, there is little likelihood of any formal action in the matter.

Boyle Springs Sensation.

Mercer, Pa., May 11.—Before starting to the penitentiary, where he is to serve a life sentence for the kidnaping of Willie Whitla, James Boyle gave out a written statement in which he tells of the alleged murder at Youngstown, O., several years ago, of Daniel Reeble, Jr. He tells of the finding of Reeble's body on the sidewalk, and says: "Over the prostrate form was Mr. Harry Forker of Sharon, Pa., holding in his right hand a package of letters that were gathered from the sidewalk near the body of Reeble." He said Dan Shay, now dead, was present. In Forker's haste he left four letters, says Boyle, who declared Forker paid him money regularly for years to keep them secret. During Boyle's recent visit to Sharon, he says, he demanded $5,000, which Forker promised to get and give him in a short time.

On returning to Cleveland, Boyle says he wrote Forker and received in reply an unsigned letter proposing the abduction. He says this abduction was carried out and that he (Boyle) showed the letter to Mr. Whitla in Cleveland, and says Whitla promised if he would substantiate the Youngstown letter, he (Whitla) would see that there was no prosecution.

Whitla Enters Denial.

Sharon, Pa., May 11. J. P. Whitla, father of Willie Whitla, who is alleged in James Boyle's statement to have accepted the letters Boyle said he had, and which he said belonged to Harry Forker, denies absolutely that any such deal with Boyle occurred. On the witness stand, during the trial of Boyle, he denied having seen Boyle on a street corner in Cleveland and discussed with him the kidnaping and the ransom.

"Nothing to It," Says Forker.

Sharon, Pa., May 11.—Harry Forker was seen regarding the statement issued by James Boyle, implicating him in the kidnaping of Willie Whitla. He said: "I know nothing at all of this case. There is nothing to it. I only know Boyle as I know other members of his family, as residents of Sharon."

Story Not Upheld.

Youngstown, O., May 11.—The association of the name of Harry Forker by James Boyle, the convicted kidnaper of Willie Whitla, with allegations that he was connected with the death of Dan Reebel, Jr., here in June, 1895, has not been confirmed by the police records in Youngstown.

Patrolman Michael Donnelly, still an active member of the police department, talked with Reebel only an hour prior to his death. The two men were seated at the foot of the stairs of the building in which Reebel lived. Leaving Reebel, Donnelly was less than a block away on his beat when he heard a noise in the direction of the Mauser building. He returned and found Reebel on the sidewalk, living but unconscious. No one was in sight.

LEG BLOWN OFF WITH SHOTGUN

In a Rough and Tumble Fight at Lancaster.

Lancaster, O., May 10.—While in a rough and tumble fight with Noah Seifert, last night, John Wilds' leg was blown off with a shotgun fired by Seifert's young son.

Wilds, who has been employed on a gas pipe line, used to board with the Seiferts near New Berne. Wilds had been drinking and, passing his former boarding-house, attempted to force an entrance. Seifert warned him away, but Wilds persisted in trying to break down the door, and the two men engaged in a fist fight.

Seifert was soon getting the worst of it, and cried to his son for help. The youth appeared with a shotgun and sent a heavy charge into Wilds' limb.

BAG BURSTS AS BALLOON LANDS

Army Aeronauts Have Thrilling Experience.

REMAIN IN AIR FOR SIX HOURS

Start at Omaha and Land at Jackson.

The Distance Traveled Is 120 Miles. Express Belief That Enveloping Sack Absorbs Static Electricity at High Altitude and on Nearing Earth Spark Is Generated Which Ignites Gas in the Bag.

Omaha, Neb., May 11.—In making a landing at Jackson, Neb., the army balloon No. 12, which ascended from Fort Omaha, was destroyed by the bursting of the gas bag, a few feet above the ground. Neither Captain Chandler nor Lieutenant Ware, who made the flight, was seriously injured.

The distance traveled was about 120 miles and the flight was made in about six hours. The occupants of the balloon were taken to town in a farmer's wagon.

Both Captain Chandler and Lieutenant Ware were knocked down by the force of the explosion, but were not seriously injured. Captain Chandler said that despite the destruction of the balloon much was accomplished in an experimental way by the flight. The big bag was a new one and had never before been inflated.

Lieutenant Ware declared that, aside from the destruction of the bag, the flight was an entire success. Captain Chandler believes that while at a high altitude the gas bag became charged with static electricity, and that on reaching the ground contact with the earth caused an arc to form, thus producing an electric spark which set fire to the big bag.

SENATE STANDS BY COMMITTEE

Flatly Refuses To Lower Dingley Rates on Lead.

BEVERIDGE AND ALDRICH SPAT

Hoosier Comments on Scarcity of Information.

The Rhode Island Senator Resents Remarks of the Indiana Man and Gives Him Advice in Regard to the Best Manner in Which He Can Serve His Constituents—Explains Former Remark.

Washington, May 11.—That the Republican majority in the senate can and will uphold the recommendations of the finance committee was demonstrated when, by a vote of 35 to 44, it refused to reduce by one-quarter of a cent a pound the duty on pig lead. In this vote 11 Republicans voted with the Democrats, and Hughes of Colorado and McEnery, both Democrats, voted against the amendment. Among the bolting Republicans was Burton of Ohio.

A tilt between Senators Aldrich and Beveridge was a feature of the session. The senator from Indiana took the floor and spoke of the address of Senator Carter last Saturday in which the Montana senator referred to the abundance of information on the pending tariff bill available to senators.

"I think the senate understands this speech," said Mr. Beveridge, "but in order that the country may understand it I will ask the clerk to read an extract from the Congressional Record."

The extract read was from a speech by Senator McCumber, in which complaint was made that no information was available for senators showing the comparative cost of articles in the tariff schedules in this country and abroad, and in which it was suggested that a bureau to provide such information should be created.

Quotes Aldrich.

Mr. Beveridge then sent to the desk another extract from a statement by Mr. Aldrich to be read by the clerk, the chairman of the committee on finance being quoted as saying: "I have no knowledge whatever of anything that transpired upon the ways and means committee," etc.

Mr. Aldrich said his statement had related only to the hearings on "orange minerals," under consideration when he spoke, and did not refer to the hearings as a whole, because he had read much of the report of those hearings. "I have given 30 years to the consideration of these matters," said Mr. Aldrich, "and while I may not have the ability of the senator from Indiana yet, such as I have I have brought to this question, and if the senator will give a fraction of the time to the consideration of these matters that I have given he will serve his constituency and the country better than by proclaiming to everybody the lack of information."

Message Is Sidetracked.

Washington, May 11. — Strenuous opposition by the Democrats in the house prevented the reference of the president's message recommending certain legislation for Porto Rico to the committee on ways and means. A motion by Mr. Garrett (Tenn.) directing the speaker to forthwith approach the committee on insular affairs, which under ordinary procedure would have charge of the subject, disclosed the fact that a quorum was not present. Consequently the message will lie on the speaker's table until the house meets on Thursday.

BOYLE GETS A LIFE SENTENCE

For the Kidnaping of Little Billy Whitla.

HIS WIFE RECEIVES TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

And Is Fined $5,000 and Costs of Prosecution.

Although the Woman Is Destitute, It Is the Desire of the Court To Inflict the Heaviest Punishment Possible as a Warning to Others Disposed To Resort to the Crime of Kidnaping.

Mercer, Pa., May 10.—The heaviest penalties that the law of Pennsylvania allows were given James H. Boyle and his beautiful wife, Helen, today for stealing Billy Whitla.

Boyle was sent to the penitentiary for life on the kidnaping charge. Mrs Boyle was sentenced to twenty-five years' imprisonment for aiding and abetting the kidnaping.

Although the woman is destitute, Judge Williams showed his desire to rebuke the crime to the full extent of the law by imposing upon her the fine of $5,000 and the costs of the prosecution, which are allowed under the statute.

Attorney Miller's plea for mercy was in vain.

Sentenced by Court.

"Boyle," said Judge Williams, "have you anything to say why sentence should not be passed."

"Not a word," said Jimmy.

Judge Williams began his charge. He spoke of old Hebrew and Roman laws that made kidnaping punishable with death. In all ages he said kidnaping has been severely punished.

"The act under which you were convicted," he said to Boyle, "was made so severe because more lenient punishments were found inadequate to stop such crimes.

"That law must be taken as representative of public sentiment. The court must take this law as he finds it, without regard to any clamor of which your attorney has spoken.

Your Prize Package.

"It has been stated by your counsel that you took good care of the boy. That may well be. The boy was your prize package."

When Mrs. Boyle was asked if she knew any reason why sentence should not be pronounced she answered:

"No, only I didn't do it, and I consider the evidence very flimsy."

Mrs. Boyle was pale but without a tremor.

"I think you have had a fair trial," replied Judge Williams. "I do not see how the jury could have returned any other verdict. I believe the evidence clearly shows you planned the kidnaping with James Boyle."

The judge mentioned a record. Mrs. Boyle started to speak, but her attorney sprang up protesting. "I submit," Miller cried, "there is nothing in evidence about her record."

Admits the Fact.

"I was about to state that fact," said Judge Williams.

After sentence was passed Mrs. Boyle asked: "May I speak?" She had collected herself by this time, and meant to say something worth while. But there was no answer and she sat down.

Mrs. Boyle was sick this morning, and for a time it was feared that she might not be able to come to court. While sentence was being pronounced she stood stiffly erect, but once outside the court-room she swayed into the arms of the guard and seemed about to faint. Then she pressed her hands to her face, got herself together and walked on head up. Once in her cell, she broke down and wept hysterically.

The crowd that packed the court-room received the sentence in absolute silence. While the prisoners were being led back to their cells there was no demonstration of any kind.

"There may be others in the kidnaping. I know nothing as to that. I can only say that if there were others the proper time for Boyle to tell what he knew was before the trial. Yet if now at any time information concerning any other person or persons directly or indirectly connected with this crime is brought to the attention of this court they should be prosecuted without fear or favor."

When Judge Williams answered Mrs. Boyle's statement in court he spoke gently and told her that if she believed her innocent she could file an appeal for a new trial at any time within six months.

Boyle as he was led down the stairs from court cursed Judge Williams to Sheriff Chess. Following a string of oaths and offensive names, he applied to the court, Boyle said: "He will suffer for this."

No Appeal Planned.

Mercer, Pa., May 10.—No appeal is to be made for Mrs. James H. Boyle, when she and her husband are sentenced for kidnapping Billy Whitla.

Sentences are expected today. Boyle can be sent to prison for life, and his wife for a maximum of twenty-five years.

Mrs. Boyle's attorneys said today that her brother, who paid for her defense, has decided to furnish no more funds for appeal. He has returned to his home in Chicago.

According to law, an appeal can be made any time within six months, and it is still possible that the woman will make a final effort to save herself if she can raise the money for legal fees.

This morning, however, she was evidently without hope. She reiterated her ascertion that she would never reach the penitentiary and hinted at suicide, but with a keen eye to the effect of her words on her listeners.

Yesterday was a big day for Mrs. Boyle. It was her twenty-third birthday, and she was allowed many privileges. Jimmy sent her a message and some money with which she sent out and bought a box of chocolates. As she munched these she conversed with her many callers about her innocence and about suicide.

Attempts at Escape.

Sheriff Chess today told for the first time all about Jimmy Boyle's desperate attempts to break jail. Boyle, he said, had wrenched a three-foot iron bar from his cell bunk and hidden it. Then he pretended to become suddenly sick. The plot, as revealed to the sheriff by a foreigner who was imprisoned in the same range of cells, was to lure Chess to the cell and strike him down and seize his keys. The sheriff also described two other attempts of Boyle, one to make his get-away with the help of a raid from the outside and a revolver smuggled to him by which he was to shoot his way out when the attack began: the other by sawing bars.

Boyle had plenty of help from outside; and this fact sustained his assertion that others besides him were interested in the kidnaping.

The authorities, however, place little reliance in his wild accusations. They say that they have investigated all his charges and have failed to implicate any one else in the crime.

Boyle may make a more detailed statement when he is sentenced.

To Take Themselves Off.

A carefully planned scheme on the part of Jimmy Boyle and his wife, Helen, to cheat justice of its ends was frustrated early today. A thorough search of Jimmy by Sheriff Chess, this morning, resulted in the finding of a razor hidden between the lining and silk of his necktie, and Mrs. Boyle frankly admits she took "enough morphine to kill two people," but it did not have the desired result.

Adjoining Mrs. Boyle's cell is that of Mrs. Ella Harry, who pleaded guilty this morning to the charge of killing her husband. Mrs. Harry is a victim of the morphine habit and the drug had been prescribed for her. Mrs. Boyle learned that Mrs. Harry was receiving morphine and begged the tablets from the woman. Mrs. Boyle said: "I was convinced there was no hope for us and at midnight decided that the time had come for me to end it all. I never used morphine, but I put all the tablets I had in a glass, poured in some water and drank it all down. I am sure there was sufficient poison to kill two persons, but it didn't affect me seriously.

Prays for Death.

"When I lay down on my bed at midnight I prayed it would be my last sleep and that the sheriff this morning would find me a corpse."

Mrs. Boyle was only partly conscious during the night, but was very sick this morning.

The morphine, it is claimed, was partly responsible for her collapse in court after sentence had been imposed.

All last night Boyle entreated Sheriff Chess either to allow him to go to Mrs. Boyle's cell or permit her to visit him that they might talk over some private affairs. Sheriff Chess was suspicious, however, and without directly refusing the request, put off the meeting. Sheriff Chess said that the purpose of the razor was evidently to kill Mrs. Boyle during the expected interview, and for Boyle to then kill himself.

At noon today three hatpins were taken from Mrs. Boyle.

Woman Found Guilty.

Mercer, Pa., May 8.—Mrs. James H. Boyle helped her husband kidnap Billy Whitla. She may be sentenced to twenty-five years' imprisonment

The jury in the Mercer county court brought this verdict against her this afternoon. Boyle was found guilty of the kidnaping Thursday.

Mrs. Boyle was indicted on two charges, kidnaping, and aiding and abetting a kidnaping. The prosecution dropped the first charge, and the second was the only one left for the jury to decide. It was a swift verdict. Shortly before noon the case was placed in the jury's hands. Within five minutes it returned a decision. On account of the absence of Judge Williams, who had given a recess and gone to dinner, the verdict was not read until 1:30.

The jury took two ballots. On the first, one man stood for an acquittal; but he soon yielded when he found that he stood alone.

The Final Chapter.

This writes the final chapter of the Whitla kidnaping case which began on March 18, when the only son of Attorney J. P. Whitla was stolen from his school in Sharon Pennsylvania. An epilogue may follow, for Mrs. Boyle has the money to carry the case higher and says she will appeal.

The woman's only chance for acquittal was the doubt her attorney tried to raise in the minds of the jury as to whether or not the acts charged against her were committed in Pennsylvania. He contended that the alleged crime was committed in Cleveland; but the jury decided against him.

Mrs. Boyle received the verdict with ashen face and pale lips, but made no comment. But her instinct for the dramatic was unconquered. As she was led away to jail she remarked:

"I now realize the feeling of the crucified Christ."

Only a few feet away from her were the two women she had helped wrong, Mrs. Whitla and her sister, Mrs. Frank Buhl. Billy's aunt. "Isn't is a pity it must be so," said Mrs. Whitla. "I could never gloat over a woman in distress. The reason we felt we must push this is to protect other people from the awful torment we had to go through." Her arm tightened around Billy, who sat cuddled down by her side.

Be Sentenced Monday.

Judge Williams said as he left court: "I think I will sentence the Boyles Monday I want to get it over with."

Attorney Miller, for Mrs. Boyle, said that he would file a motion for a new trial on that day. No motion will be filed for Boyle. "Nothing can be done for him," said Miler.

The verdict was received without demonstration, and Mrs Boyle's trip back to the jail was undisturbed. Those who hissed and flouted her yesterday, today showed nothing but pity.

In the final hour of the trial, the woman seemed to cling closer to William Mcdermott, of Chicago, who appeared with her in court this morning and is said to be her brother. The resemblance between them is marked.

SCENES AT BEVERLY, WHICH SOON WILL BE NATION'S SUMMER CAPITAL

Arrangements are complete at Beverly, Massachusetts, for installing the executive machinery when President Taft and his family shall arrive next month. The president's secretary, Mr. Carpenter, will have his headquarters, with a large force of clerks and stenographers, in the Beverly board of trade building, the ground floor of which is occupied by the largest dry goods store in the town. The directors' room, which is commodious, light and well ventilated and is equipped with substantial furniture, will be used by the president's secretary. An adjoining room has been fitted up for the clerical force, and still another room has been set aside for the use of newspaper correspondents and telegraph operators. President Taft will be a frequent visitor at the Myopia Yacht club and will use the club's golf links for daily sessions with the "golf cabinet." He will attend the Unitarian church, which is only a short distance from the shore cottage he has leased. The large force of secret service men detailed to attend the president will occupy rooms in a hotel when not on duty at the cottage or executive offices. A lodge near the entrance to the cottage grounds will be the headquarters of the outpost guards, who will scrutinize all strangers who attempt to enter the grounds.

for taxation in the hands of those having the most property to tax. The chief issue was a bill making all the judges in municipalities elective.

Delegates Block Legislation.

"The facts recited demonstrate the willingness of the representatives of the people in the house of delegates to subvert the government in order to secure the passage of certain legislation. The question whether the proposed legislation should be enacted into law was left by the fundamental act to the joint action of the executive council and the house of delegates as the legislative assembly. The house of delegates proposes itself to secure this legislation without respect to the opposition of the executive council, or else to pull down the whole government. This spirit, which has been growing from year to year in Porto Rico, shows that too great power has been vested in the house of delegates, and that its members are not sufficiently alive to their oath, taking responsibility for the maintenance of the government to justify congress in further reposing in them absolute power to withhold appropriations necessary for the government's life.

"For these reasons I recommend amendment to the Foraker act providing that whenever the legislative assembly shall adjourn without making the appropriations necessary to carry on the government, sums equal to the appropriations made in the previous year for the respective purposes shall be available from the current revenues and shall be drawn by the warrant of the auditor on the treasurer and countersigned by the governor. Such a provision applies to the legislatures of the Philippines and Hawaii, and it has prevented in these two countries any misuse of the power of appropriation.

Committee Visits Washington.

The house of delegates sent a committee of three to Washington, while the executive council was represented by the secretary and a committee consisting of the attorney general and the auditor. I referred both committees to the secretary of the interior, whose report, with a letter from Governor Post, and the written statements of both committees, accompany this message.

"I have had one personal interview with the committee representing the house of delegates, and suggested to them that if the house of delegates would pass the appropriation bill, without insisting upon the passage of the other bills by the executive council, I would send a representative of the government to Porto Rico to make an investigation and report in respect to the proposed legislation. Their answer shows them not to be in a compromising mood.

"Representatives of the house of delegates insist in their appeals to congress and to the public that from the standpoint of a free people the Porto Ricans are now subjected under American control to political oppression and to a much less liberal government than under that of Spain. To prove this they refer to the provisions of a royal decree of 1897, promulgated in November of that year. The decree related to the government of Porto Rico and Cuba and was undoubtedly a great step forward in granting a certain sort of autonomy to the people of the two islands. The war followed within a few months after its promulgation, and it is impossible to say what its practical operation would have been."

Past and Present Conditions.

After reviewing at length the condition of Porto Rico at the time the island came into the possession of the United States, the improvements made and conditions at present existing, President Taft says "If the Porto Ricans desire a change in the form of the Foraker act, this is a matter for congressional consideration dependent on the effect of such a change on the real political progress in the island. Such a change should be sought in an orderly way and not brought to the attention of congress by paralyzing the arm of the existing government. I do not doubt that the terms of the existing fundamental act might be improved, certainly in qualifying some of its provisions as to the respective jurisdictions of the executive council and the legislative assembly, and I suggest to congress the wisdom of submitting to the appropriate committees this question of revision. But no action of this kind should be begun until after, by special amendment of the Foraker act, the absolute power of appropriation is taken away from those who have shown themselves too irresponsible to enjoy it.

Forget to Be Grateful.

"In the desire of certain of their leaders for political power, Porto Ricans have forgotten the generosity of the United States in its dealings with them. This should not be an occasion for surprise, nor in dealing with a whole people can it be made the basis of a charge of ingratitude. When we with the consent of the people of Porto Rico, assumed guardianship over them and the guidance of their destinies, we must have been conscious that a people that had enjoyed so little opportunity for education could not be expected safely for themselves to exercise the full power of self government, and the present development is only an indication that we have gone somewhat too fast in the extension of political power to them for their own good.

"The change recommended may not immediately convince those controlling the house of delegates of the mistake they have made in the extremity to which they have been willing to resort for political purposes, but in the long run it will secure more careful and responsible exercise of the power they have.

"There is not the slightest evidence that there has been on the part of the governor or of any member of the executive council a disposition to usurp authority, or to withhold approval of such legislation as was for the best interest of the island, or a lack of sympathy with the best aspiration of the Porto Rican people."

Talk of Bloodshed.

Washington, May 10.—That there will be bloodshed in Porto Rico before the American government can put into operation the legislation recommended by President Taft in his message today, is the prediction made by Tulio Larrinaga, delegate from Porto Rico.

"The president has been imposed upon," said Larrinaga this afternoon. "His message is simply a plea for those six men in the executive council to keep their jobs. The house of delegates has been insulted time after time during the past two months, and it has come to the point where public opinion says: 'Enough.' They can pass this legislation and we who are weak will have to bend the knee. But the trouble will come two years from now when the elections are held for the house of delegates. The friends of the American administration will try to elect their henchmen to the lower house, but they will have to kill thousands to do it.

"The president thinks that we have committed a crime in wanting to rule ourselves. You know it has got to be a crime for the people to rule themselves in America and I suppose, we are very guilty.

Porto Rico also Prosperous.

"The president says that we were not prosperous before America ruled. Why Porto Rico has always been a money-lending country. We loaned Cuba two and a quarter millions, and we have always had more credit in Europe than the United States.

"The whole trouble is with the system. The president really does not know about conditions there. It works this way. Some cheap politician in Nebraska hears about a vacancy in Porto Rico. He does not even know where Porto Rico is, but looks it up on the map, and if he is due for a reward, he hurries to Washington and sees his senator. The senator introduces him to the president, and he gets the appointment. He goes without knowing about Porto Rico, and when he goes there he makes a terrible botch of it.

"It is to uphold American officials in just this way that the message of the president was sent in today. It is all cut and dried, and the president's recommendations are going to be carried out by congress. We are weak and we are ready for the blow, but I foresee disastrous consequences two years hence."

AGED RESIDENT DIES AT HOME NORTH OF LA RUE

Death Is the Result of a Stroke of Apoplexy.

The Passing of Mrs. Elizabeth McClelland—She Is Alone When Stricken and Is Not Discovered for Some Time—Leaves a Daughter.

LaRue, May 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elizabeth McClelland, aged eighty-nine years, four months and fifteen days, died at her home four miles north of LaRue, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. About two weeks ago, neighbors found Mrs. McClelland, who lived alone, unconscious on the floor at her home. After regaining consciousness she stated that she had lain for some time as she had been stricken by apoplexy the day before. Her condition gradually became worse until death came to relieve her of her sufferings.

The deceased was born in Canada but has resided near LaRue a number of years. Her husband died several years ago. She was a good Christian woman and highly respected. She was a charter member of the Montgomery church near this place.

A daughter, Mrs. Pearl Kemper, residing on a farm near her mother, survives with five grandchildren.

The funeral will be held from the Montgomery M. E. church, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. G. F. Kinnear officiating. Interment will be made in the church cemetery.

A Tonic or a Stimulant?

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a tonic. It does not stimulate. It does not make you feel better one day, then as bad as ever the next. There is not a drop of alcohol in it. WHEN MEN SEEMED AS GODS

By William T Ellis

The International Sunday-School Lesson for May 16 is, Paul's First Missionary Journey—Ironium and Lystra" Acts 14 1-28

Whenever a true sermon from heaven dropped in the crowded streets multitudes came to hear him Lieutenant Shackleton who has just further South will find himself the hero of the day when he gets back to London Humanity instinctively pays tribute to the hero Paul's heroisms have done more to popularize him than his theology There was a time in the post-mortems when that which seems to the lips of every careful reader of these early narrative of Paul's journeys Hardships were accepted as a part of the day work The travelpreacher's program could not be thrown by disturbed whether he was hailed as a god or stoned as a heretic Incidentally it may be remarked he was stoned oftener than he was apotheosized

Driven from Antioch in Pisidia the disciples not one what discouraged but in the native pontedly remarks filled with joy went on their way to Ironium There again they created a sensation The city was turned upside down A great multitude of Jews and of Greeks gathered upon the way Here again Hindu bigotry and secret unrest set to work Boldly the disciples spoke and wondrously they wrought But the Jewish ecclesiastical party soon found itself in command of a subservient mob and the Christians were stoned out of the city

Now history judges Ironium chiefly by its attitude towards the prophet whom it stoned Well does Carlyle say The most significant feature in the history of mankind is the manner of his welcoming a great man whether they shall take him to be a god to be a prophet or what they shall take him to be by their way of answering that we shall see before us a little window into the very heart of those men's spiritual conditions

Religion That Makes Men

Moving on to Lystra when driven from Ironium the disciple continued the same sort of work that they had been doing previously in spite of the opposition In connection with this visit a characteristic incident is recorded by the historian In Lystra there was a well known lame beggar constantly time He was a cripple from birth and had never walked Yet he came unbidden some modern incident to have died and healed from his affliction Paul discerned him out Perceiving the man's receptiveness and responsiveness and that he had the faith to be healed Paul said with a loud voice Stand upright on thy feet and he leaped up and walked

The gospel had been doing this sort of thing right along for men minds as well as for their bodies The cripples who comes in abnormal are not hurt so serious a burden upon society as those who pride twisted lives and weak Very much more than it needs is spent for the sick and the lame and the blind and the deaf in world need a gospel that has will cure the paralytic and make him stand erect and walk There are many surgeons who can straighten out the limbs and backs but only the Great Physician can make men straight in their souls That the miracle of the lame man which may be seen daily in almost every community in the land

Spurning High Honors

The healing of the lame man moved the population of the town to excitement The hill crowd was caught in imagination by the spectacular performance Moved by the excitement of the occasion and forgetful of their lofty mother tongue the people found themselves coming down to the level of men Barnabas they named Jupiter and Paul Mercury

If this were all it had been a modern and prosaic sequence but one thing would have convinced missionaries bent to Antioch with the story of their high honors that had come to them Their success would have been hurtful to their souls if it had not been accompanied by the most severe persecution

For the first we encounter the hatred of the Jew for the man of the mole In the city of Iconium they had entered a synagogue and spoken in such a way that a great company of Jews and also of Greeks believed Then the unbelieving Jews stirred up the minds of the Gentiles and made them evil affected against the brethren A long time they abode there speaking boldly in the Lord which gave testimony unto the word of his grace and granted signs and wonders to be done by their hands But the multitude of the city was divided and part held with the Jews and part with the apostles When there arose an assault both of the Gentiles and also of the Jews with their rulers to use them shamefully and to stone them they became aware of it and fled unto Lystra and Derbe cities of Lycaonia and unto the region that lieth round about and there they preached the gospel

Then also in Lystra when driven from Iconium the disciples

GRAND JURY MAKES REPORT OF FINDINGS

Five Persons Are Indicted and Five Matters Ignored.

BIG DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST THE ERIE

John W. Clark, Administrator of the Estate of John W. C. Jackson, Begins an Action To Recover the Sum of $10,000 for Killing of Jackson. Some Local Court Items.

The grand jury, after being in session for about five days, indicted five persons and ignored five of the ten cases considered. Two indictments of three counts each were returned against Harry Kennedy for criminally assaulting his seven-year-old daughter, Ella Kennedy, Charles H. Hole was indicted for embezzling $1,000 from the Wells Fargo & Company express, and Charles Bennett, Roy Humes and William Humes were indicted for burglary and larceny. The trio is alleged to have entered the slaughter-house of John Flach and stolen hides valued at $25.

The following cases were ignored: Thomas Hannegan, charged with violating the Rose law in giving Miles Tipton, a prisoner in the city prison, a drink of whisky; George Mocks, non-support; Frank Leeper, assault on Oregon Kerr; Charles A. Day, selling land without a title.

The grand jury examined forty-six witnesses. No recommendations were made after visiting the jail last Friday morning.

John W. Clark, administrator of the estate of John W. C. Jackson, deceased, through Attorneys DeGolley & DeGolley, brought an action in the common pleas court, Friday, May 7, for $10,000 damages against the Chicago & Erie Railway company, the Erie Railroad company, Hamilton R. Curry and E. C. Curry. He sets up that on November 30, 1908, the Chicago & Erie Railway company and the Erie Railroad company through its servants, Hamilton R. Curry and E. C. Curry wilfully committed assault to murder John W. C. Jackson without cause or justification.

Attorney John H. Clark, representing Martha Miller, filed a motion in the common pleas court, last Saturday, asking the court to hold Samuel Miller, her divorced husband, to be adjudged in contempt because of his failure to comply with the court's alimony order.

Miller, who was married at Sandusky, Wednesday night, to Miss Annette Mull, was directed by Judge B. G. Young, April 28, to pay $2,200 alimony to his divorced wife. Of this amount $150 was to have been paid at once and $25 a month.

Mrs. Miller, in her motion, sets up that her former husband has made no effort to pay money in any amount.

Through Attorney L. B. McNeal, two suits on promissory notes of $187 each, have been begun by John W. Crawford against J. D. Lama and Philip Baner, Jr.

A husband, who is living apart from his wife, is not liable for grocery bills run by the latter in conducting a boarding-house, according to the ruling of Judge B. G. Young, who Saturday afternoon, reversed the court of Justice Charles E. Gompf in the suit of Rodemich brothers, of Toledo, against W. W. Bricker, an employe of the Marion Steam Shovel company.

"The court happens to know something about this case," said Judge Young. "Bricker's wife run a boarding-house. Her husband did not live with her. Afterward she ran away with her paramour and took her husband's household goods. Her paramour represented himself to be Bricker."

The court dissolved the attachment against Bricker's pay at the Marion Steam Shovel company's office, and ordered the money paid to him.

Jacob P. Barnthouse, plaintiff in an action against C. E. Mounts, through Attorneys Crissinger & Guthery, filed a reply in the common pleas court, Saturday afternoon. He sets up a general denial of the principal allegations made in the defendant's cross-petition. The plaintiff says that a certain note described in the petition was a renewal of a note and interest accrued on the same, executed and delivered by the defendant to the plaintiff on or about July 12, 1904; that some time previous to this date the defendant subscribed four shares of capital stock in the J. P. Barnthouse Grain & Seed company at the par value of $25 a share. He avers that the company was indebted to him and it was agreed that he should collect in the money for the subscription of a part of the stock, the money so collected to be applied on the debt and credited to the company.

Charles H. Hole, indicted for embezzling $1,000 from the Wells Fargo & Company express, was released from jail on $1,500 bond, Sunday afternoon. H. B. Hole, father of the young man, and I. F. Hole, an uncle, both residing at Versailles, and M. E. Stover, of Greenville, were his boudsmen. All of them are wealthy.

Hole went to Versailles from Marion.

The money only suit of J. M. Sanders and others against Arthur F. Benedict has been settled out of court.

In the matter of H. B. Dickason against E. A. Solomon, an action in replevin, leave has been given the defendant to plead by May 22.

The defendant is given leave to plead by May 15, in the civil action of Benjamin F. Adams against James B. Bolander and others.

In the matter of Fosland H. Logan against Mary Hand, an appeal on attachment from the court of Justice Charles E. Gompf, Judge Young ordered the goods restored on the ground that household goods are exempt from attachment. He held the same in the matter of Seth Knoch against Mary Hand, an appeal on attachment from the court of Justice Charles H. Conley.

The May term of the common pleas court was opened, at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon, with Judge Daniel Babst, of Crestline, on the bench. The first case is that of Reynolds against Resler, an action that has been pending for years.

All of the petit jurors save two put in their appearance, at 9 o'clock, and were excused until 1 o'clock. The jury is composed of Aaron Schultz, First ward; Fred Flocken, Third ward; William W. Dix, Prospect township; John Lehner, Sr., Richland township; William H. Farnum and William F. Almendinger, Prospect township; Frank Dutton, Big Island township; J. N. Rodgers, Montgomery township, West; Thomas Oswald, Prospect; Christian Zeig, Third ward; J. W. Hoecker and Conrad Neimeyer, the last two being summoned as talismen in the present trial.

Oliver W. Hyte, through Attorney L. E. Myers, brought an action for divorce from Alta N. Hyte, Monday morning, in the common pleas court. He sets up that they were married at Monroe, Michigan, July 9, 1908, and that, although he has always comported himself as a loving and dutiful husband, providing her with all the necessaries and comforts and many of the luxuries of life, she wholly disregarded her duty as a wife. He charges her with gross neglect. Although she is strong and healthy, and well able to prepare his meals and take care of the home, which he provided for her, frequently, the plaintiff alleges, he was compelled to go to hotels and restaurants for his meals. Finally, he says, she deserted him and has since then refused to return to him.

A verdict was rendered by a jury, Monday afternoon, in a case that has been pending in the common pleas court nearly ten years. Enola Reynolds, the plaintiff, was awarded damages in the sum of $289.12, the amount asked, against C. D. Resler and others, of Caledonia.

In her petition filed January 11, 1900, the plaintiff set up that she received a verdict of $298.66 in the court of Justice E. H. Day in Claridon township against Jefferson Harris on a debt. Harris had stored over 500 bushels of wheat in an elevator owned by the defendants, who had advanced him $100 in payment for the same. A garnishee attachment was then issued against the defendants, but they refused to surrender the wheat. The result was that the damage suit was brought.

ELI WINTERS KILLED NORTH OF CALEDONIA

Frightened Horse Backs Buggy into Ditch.

THE ANIMAL FALLS ON TOP OF DRIVER

Man Is Crushed—Never Recovers Consciousness—Victim Is Accompanied by Henry Lowmiller, Who Is Also Badly Bruised and Suffers Nervous Shock.

Caledonia, May 10.—[Special.]—Eli Winters, aged sixty-seven years, residing three miles northeast of Caledonia, died, at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, from the effects of injuries sustained in an accident Saturday evening. About 8 o'clock Saturday evening, the victim of the accident and Henry Lowmiller started to drive to Marion to see a son of the latter. When about a mile north of Caledonia, the storm came up and the men decided to return home.

On both sides of the road where the men attempted to turn there is a steep bank. When the buggy was partly turned, the horse being a trifle nervous from the flashes of lightning, backed the buggy over one of the inclines. The buggy overturned and the occupants and horse fell down the embankment, the horse falling on Mr Winters. Lowmiller extricated himself from a tangled mass and seeing that his partner was badly injured and unable to talk, he hurried to the home of Grant Slagle, about a quarter of a mile distant, for assistance.

The victim of the accident was removed to the Slagle home and Dr. J. E. Baker was hastily summoned. The doctor found Mr. Winters paralyzed from the neck down and in an unconscious condition. He worked with the patient, but gave little hope of saving his life. Winters never regained consciousness, and death followed about 2 o'clock.

The deceased was born at New Winchester and spent the last forty years of his life as a resident of Marion county. He was a veteran of the civil war, serving three years and until the close of the war. After returning from the army he was married to Sarah Noblet. Five children were born to this union, three of whom survive. One son whose place of residence in the West is unknown, Jacob, residing north of Martel, and Mrs. Ollie Weidemeier, of Marion. Following the death of his wife he was married a second time to Mrs. Sarah Foos. Three children were born to this union, one dying in infancy and Jennie and Otto Winters, residing at home. Two brothers and one sister also survive.

The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the Disciple church at Martel, Rev. C. E. Smith, of this city will officiate.

Mr. Lowmiller was quite badly bruised about the body and is in a serious nervous condition as the result of the experience.

The horse was uninjured and the buggy was but slightly damaged.

STROKE OF APOPLEXY IS CAUSE OF DEATH

Rev. H. W. Gamantsfelder Dies, Sunday.

Rev. H. W. Gamantsfelder, pastor of the Calvary Evangelical church at Butler, suffered a stroke of apoplexy at his home at that place, Sunday afternoon, and died shortly afterwards. Rev. Mr. Gamantsfelder filled the pulpit of his church in the morning and was feeling in the best of health when the stroke came. He was the successor at Butler of Rev. H. C. Berger, the present presiding elder of this district. The deceased was about forty-eight years of age and was quite well known in this city.

JOINED IN MARRIAGE AT PASTOR'S HOME

Mrs. Maude Wylie and Mr. Michael Tron.

LaRue, May 10.—[Special.]—Mr. Michael Tron and Mrs. Maude Wylie were united in marriage, Sunday morning, by Rev. J. A. Sutton, at his residence at this place. Both are well known and highly respected in this vicinity. They will reside on the groom's farm two miles northwest of Agosta.

Opens an Office.

Earnest A. Scott has opened an architect's office in the Cummin Memorial block, having suites, No. 4 and 5. Mr. Scott will do a general architect's business. For the last five years he has been engaged in this business in Nashville, Tennessee. He was employed by a large company there, until he went into business for himself. He has had a wide experience and will undoubtedly be successful in his calling in this city.

Contract Let.

The contract for rebuilding the east abutment of the Klingel bridge in Richland township was awarded H. B. Geyer, of Caledonia, by the county commissioners, Saturday afternoon. His bid was $213. Other bidders were E. Rodgers, $283; T. J. Beckttle, $278; Haberman & Kull, $249.50 and C. F. Gillespie, $255.

DO BIG BUSINESS ON THE CUT PRICES

A Price War Between Two Local Concerns.

A large crowd was attracted on south Main street, early Saturday evening, by the proprietors of the Bedway Fruit company and Elias brothers' fruit and candy store, cutting prices on each other. All of the men interested in the two places are Greeks and their antics attracted considerable attention and for some time both enjoyed a rush of business.

Elias brothers cut the price of lemons to eight cents a dozen, thereby losing money. This angered the proprietors of the other place and they marked lemons to six cents, at the same time making a cut on everything. The proprietors cried their prices back and forth from in front of their places, Bedway selling peanuts two sacks for a nickel and the best bananas at two dozen for a quarter. When Elias brothers cut the price of ice-cream to twenty cents a quart, Bedway cut to fifteen. The cut prices continued until closing time. The proprietors of both places are preparing for a cut next Saturday.

GATHERING AT THE AUGENSTEIN HOME

A Very Pleasant Affair at Waldo, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Augenstein, of Waldo, pleasantly entertained their children and grandchildren, Sunday, in honor of Mr. Augenstein's fifty-eighth birthday anniversary. At noon, a fine dinner was served.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Augenstein, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Augenstein and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Behner and family, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Augenstein and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Bufford, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Niggles and son, Alma, Tillie and Alvin Augenstein.

FATHER VAUGHN DIES IN HOSPITAL MONDAY

Death Comes After Illness of Several Weeks.

Rev. Father Laurence J. Vaughn, the Catholic priest, former playwright and Shakespearean lecturer, died at a hospital in Dubuque, Iowa, Monday, after an operation for bladder trouble. Father Vaughan was author of the play, "A Woman of the West" which toured last season and in which the mass was reproduced. He had established a school for training devout Catholics for public speaking in Janesville, Wisconsin.

Father Vaughn appeared on the lecture course here a year ago and had many acquaintances in the city.

BURGLARS MAKE RAID ON THE LUCAS STOCK

They Carry Away Clothing Valued at Over $100.

POLICE HAVE A CLUE THEY ARE FOLLOWING

Thought To Have Been the Work of Local Parties—Andrew Cole Is Arrested on Charge of Drunkenness. Saws Are Stolen from Two Workmen—Police Court Matters.

The cleaning and pressing establishment of R. G. Lucas, on south Main street, was entered by burglars, Monday night, and over $100 worth of clothes were carried away. When Lucas opened his place, Tuesday morning, he noticed that some clothing was missing from the case. He went to the rear of the place and found the back door open and some tracks in the soft ground just outside the door.

A hasty invoice of the stock was taken and a ladies' tailor-made suit, several men's suits, coats and trousers were missing. The theft was reported to the police who were given a slight clue as to who did the work. It is believed that the theft was committed by local parties.

While two workmen, engaged in packing the machinery at the Implement Manufacturing company's plant for shipment to Columbus, were at dinner, Monday, a handsaw and two cross-cut saws were stolen. The handsaw was missed when the men returned to work in the afternoon, and on investigation it was found that the other saws were gone, these being practically worthless. The theft was reported to the police for investigation.

Joe Martin, aged about twenty-one years, is being looked for by the local police on a charge of pawning a bicycle belonging to another and converting the money to his own use. Martin informed a girl friend, last week, that he could dispose of a wheel for her, but later informed her that he was unable to make the sale as he could not get the price she wanted. She told him to return the wheel as she would not sell it for less. She was called to Columbus, and on her return, the wheel was not at her home. Martin then informed her that he had sold the wheel and would go to the man and get the money or the bicycle. The girl later located the wheel at a pawnshop, where it had been left by Martin. The police were unable to locate Martin up to Tuesday noon and it is believed that he received a tip and left the city.

ORGANIZATION OF BANK DIRECTORS

Meeting of the Marion County Bank Company.

The directors of the Marion County Bank company met, Monday afternoon, in the bank director's room and organized for the coming year.

The old official roster, consisting of W. H. Schaffner, president, C. C. Fisher and G. D. Copeland, vice presidents; C. D. Schaffner, cashier; E. O. Kennedy, assistant cashier and C. C. Fisher, G. B. Copeland and H. A. True, discount board, was reelected.

THE LODGE WORLD.

The Pythian Sisters held a largely-attended and interesting meeting in their hall on east Church street, Monday evening. Aside from the routine business, one application was balloted on and arrangements were made for a social to be held the evening of May 26.

Will Begin Duty.

Albert Mohr, of this city, who was appointed a guard at the Ohio penitentiary, left, Wednesday morning, for Columbus to take up his duties. He was given his choice of several forms of guard work and chose duty as a wall guard. Mr. Mohr's call was a little late as the result of his name being on a paper which was lost in transit from the governor's office to the penitentiary.

WHEN A CIRCUS GOES TO BED ITS AMUSING

Strange Carryings On in Nursery of Beasts.

ELEPHANTS WATCH OVER EACH OTHER

The Keeper Is Sure of Vigilance of the Elephant—Giraffe's Precious Legs Get Tangled in Sleep—The Chimpanzee Kicks His Covers Off. Some of Sights at Bed Time.

It is 1 o'clock in the morning. Outside of Madison Square Garden New York is far away from bed time. Broadway is still filled with its moving throng of pleasure seekers, taxicabs dart like big fireflies between the gilded lobster palaces and the Tenderloin has just let out another notch in the speed clutch to carry it until the darkness has given way to dawn. But the circus is asleep.

Down in its bed chamber in the basement of the Garden it is as still as any of the nurseries where children are dreaming of its wonders. Here and there an electric light shines wanly over the sleeping forms of the animals and reveals one of the night keepers nodding in his chair. There are eight of these men who sit up with the circus when it goes to bed to watch it sleep and be prepared for trouble. When they go on the job the big show is really in bed for the first time since daylight gave it the signal to get up.

Twelve o'clock is the circus' bed hour, and it is pretty soon up after the sun. It is no easy job putting the circus to bed, and some of the hardest work of the twenty-four hours comes after the thousands have filed out of the arena. Long before they have all gone the animals have been waiting for the bed time signal. When the lights go out the animals turn in without coaxing, which is more than some children do.

Long before the people have got through looking over the animals the circus has begun to make up its bed, but the most interesting time comes after the doors have been shut on the last of the crowd. Upstairs the work begins the very moment the last act is done. Before the crowd has left the amphitheater men have already begun to sprinkle the track and the rings getting ready for the next day's performances. At the same time men are working over the rigging, as the ropes and bars and swings overhead are called, putting it all through a careful test lest one of those mishaps occur which are in the mind of all who watch the performers swinging above their heads. By midnight this part of the circus is ready for the next day's matinee.

Downstairs, however, they have to wait to let the crowd have a last look at the elephants. Then comes the job of putting them in bed. While some of those who watched the circus go through its last act are eating in the restaurants outside the animals are getting their midnight meal too. It's a bit of a meal the elephants have just as the midnight hour comes around, a matter of several tons of hay with a mixture of 600 bushels of bran and seven bushels of oats as an appetizer. This appetizer is mixed on a big sheet just as men mix mortar. Then it is shovelled into wheel barrows and dumped in front of each elephant, who grabs it greedily. In five minutes it is eaten and then comes a barrel of water for each elephant to wet it down with. Then most of the lights go out and the elephants go to bed.

Most animals are satisfied to turn in and leave it to their human charges to see that things are all right for the night. Not so the elephants. Ask any elephant man if he ever saw a bunch of circus elephants asleep at the same time and he'll tell you that he never did. Whenever a bunch of elephants get together some of them have to sit up and watch over the others, the elephant men will tell you. They're pretty trustful of humans, are these elephants, but there isn't any keeper or any set of keepers that they would trust to take care of them at night. Some of them never saw a jungle, where their ancestors apparently got the habit of setting watches through the night, but that doesn't make any difference. This little act of the elephants is a most interesting feature of the sleeping time of the circus.

"There isn't any bunch of elephants that ever lived," says Bill Keally, the elephant man, "that will go to sleep and let their keeper see that everything is all right any more than a bunch of sailors would all turn in at the same time and let a ship sail herself. Yes, they have watches just like the sailors, as any man knows who's had to watch elephants when they go to bed. Take our elephants, for instance. Out of these twenty-three there are at least three that'll keep on their feet when the others turn in. Never seen an elephant turn in? Well, sir, they do it just as nice as children. There ain't one of 'em don't know when it's time to go to bed and set the watch, and the moment them lights begin to go out you'll see 'em one by one settling down always on their side and always with their feet toward the wall and back to their keeper. Sometimes they lie half on top of one another cuddling like.

"Now, these fellers that stand guard keep right on their feet munchin' hay, and it's a caution to watch 'em. There'll be one near each end of the line and one about in the middle, and they'll stand there with their little eyes looking around for trouble just as if they were all in the jungle not knowin' what to expect instead of with men that's here to see that they come to no harm.

"The funniest part of it is the way they change the watch. Don't believe it. Well it's as sure as I'm standin' here. These two or three elephants that will have the first watch will keep awake a few hours and then they'll give the elephants nearest to 'em a poke with their trunks. That means it's their turn, and sure enough you'll see them get up, kind of sleepy of course but showin' they know it's up to them all right. Then the first watch will turn in. I've seen it done night after night and it's one of the things that makes you have a lot of respect for an elephant even if it makes you a bit sore to think that they're suspicious of their friends.

"You see, it's one of those queer things about elephants. Why do they do it? Why is an elephant's height twice the circumference of his forefoot? Don't believe it? Get a rope and measure any one and if it ain't so the drinks are on me. I didn't believe that myself when I first went with elephants until one of the natives fooled me on it. These natives know just how big an elephant they're tracking is by measuring his footstep. No, these elephants are the only fellers in the show outside of the hyena who does night work and sleeps in the daytime, that won't leave it to their keepers to see that everything's all right."

When the circus is on the road the twenty elephant men sleep right in front of the animals, but in the Garden they have a room to sleep in and only one man is left to do the watching.

The elephants are not the only animals that have to have some one sit up with them when the circus sleeps. There's little Mr. Darwin, the chimpanzee, who has got to be watched night as well as day to see that he doesn't catch cold. A bad cold would probably be fatal to Mr. Darwin and it would mean more than $1,000 to replace him. Tacked to Mr. Darwin's cage is a little room not more than three feet wide. It's a pretty small bedroom, nothing like as big as Mr. Darwin's, but in it sleeps a man every night. In this room is a patent stove which keeps Mr. Darwin's bedroom at just 82 degrees. Every hour this man in the next room is waked up by an alarm clock. That is so he can look at the thermometer and be sure that it says 82 degrees. Not a very healthy job to be sure in these days of sleeping out of doors, but still there's a man that does it every day in the year, whether on the cars or in a place like the Garden.

The giraffes also need a night nurse, not because they are delicate or troubled with insomnia but because their feet have a nasty way of getting tangled up and it might mean some broken limbs if the giraffes tried to untangle their legs themselves. Giraffes aren't easily picked up and the Ringlings value their pair at about $10,000, which might be a dead loss if they got their legs in a bow knot in the night and there wasn't anybody to untie them.

Going to bed is pretty easy for the giraffes. They tuck themselves in easily. It's the getting up that's hard. They prefer to put one of those long hind legs between the two front ones and leave the other outside. Now, it sometimes happens that if they are at all restless in their sleep they get both legs in between the two front ones. It's all over with Mr. Giraffe then. He can't get out of bed to save his life and in trying to there's apt to be a bad accident. It's here that the night nurse has to be watchful.

After he sees the giraffes tacked in and gives them good night the nurse draws up a chair close to their bed and keeps his eyes on them from midnight until day breaks. If he should happen to see that off hind leg going in to join the other between the two front legs he jumps out of his chair and rescues it. Of course this wakes up the giraffe, but he is extremely grateful for the assistance and generally drops right off again.

The horses have to be watched too. It takes two night watchmen for them. All of the other animals are able to sleep alone very nicely. A lot of them sleep a good deal during the day, but just as soon as midnight comes and the lights grow dim they turn in for some real sound sleep, waking up at daylight ready for a good breakfast.

Sometimes, to be sure, the circus has a bad night caused perhaps by an animal having the colic. That will start up the other animals and then the big Garden rattles and roars like a battleship in action. There's a hurry call then for Charlie Smith, the animal man, for this circus hasn't such a thing as a veterinary, strange as that may seem. The keepers have their own remedies and Charlie Smith is the boss with a colic cure that has never failed yet. He's been known to have a pretty sick animal sound asleep again in half an hour. Then the cries of the disturbed beasts die away and the circus sleeps again until the dawn lights up the golden Diana high up on the tower above the cages of the beasts.—New York Sun.

FAMOUS SINGER AND BANKER WHOM SHE'LL WED IN A YEAR

When Mme. Lillian Nordica sailed for Europe she announced that next year would be her last on the stage and that within a year she would be the bride of George W. Young, president of the Windsor Trust company, New York City. It has been rumored frequently in the last two or three years that Mr. Young and the prima donna were engaged, but neither has ever before confirmed the report. Mr. Young possesses a large fortune and is a member of many clubs in New York. He was at the pier when the vessel sailed, but smilingly referred interviewers to Mme. Nordica when asked concerning the engagement.

ABOUT THE IDEAL GIRL.

Miss Mary E. Wooley, the president of Mt. Holyoke college for girls, recently remarked that the college-bred girl is not the ideal girl to marry. This is a surprising statement for one so high in authority; and one might well doubt the truth of the report, if she was not further quoted as saying that the shop girl, the factory girl, and the girl who works in an office make better wives because they are active, sincere and earnest.

This is very important if true, especially to the young men, who are inclined to matrimony, which of course, should be the case with all of them. Certainly a girl who has worked for her living, and has made barely enough to keep herself, and others dependent on her, is more apt to value a home of her own, than one who has had an easy time in the world and very little care to weary her. That is the reasoning of Miss Wooley, according to the public statement.

Strange talk for the president of Mount Holyoke, which is not noted as a finishing school or an artificial superficiality institution. It is recognized as a practical school, a place where the nobility of housekeeping is recognized, and where work is considered the lot of woman as well as of man. We should not wonder if Miss Wooley he'd to some mental reservation in the matter, and that her declaration did not apply to her own graduates. But then without a resort to comparison, there is no doubt that a hale, handsome, sensible girl who makes her own living and keeps sweet, is as Miss Wooley expresses it, an ideal girl to marry.—Ohio State Journal.

THE HEAVENS IN MAY AND HOW THEY APPEAR TO THE STUDENT

Most of the Finer Constellations Lie in or Near the Milky Way. The Various Stars To Be Viewed During the Month.

Most of the finer constellations lie in or near the Milky Way, for example, Orion, Canis Major, Lyra, Cygnus and Scorpio. But there are a few exceptions, and none of these is more conspicuous than Ursa Major.

Probably no group of stars is familiar to so many people as the Great Dipper, though this name is apparently an Americanism, as it is almost unknown in England. It is at least really descriptive. The group looks like a dipper, with a badly bent handle, to be sure, but still quite serviceable. The Dipper handle is the Bear's tail; its bowl is in the creature's body, while a group of smaller stars about twenty degrees to the westward marks the Bear's head, and three pairs of nearly equal stars, farther south, represent three of its four paws.

Every one knows that the "Pointers" at the front of the Dipper bowl are almost exactly in line with the Pole star; and many are familiar with the remarkable system of Mizar, the star at the bend of the handle. It has a distant companion, Alcor, visible with the naked eye, a much closer one, which requires telescopic aid to see it; and recent spectroscopic work shows that all three of these stars are really close pairs, with periods of but a few days or weeks. The stars b and e are also spectroscopic binaries of much the same sort.

It is clear that in the Dipper we have a very remarkable group of stars; and their whole story is not yet told.

Five of the seven stars, those from b to g inclusive, are moving together in the sky, all very nearly parallel to the line joining the first to the last. The remaining two, at the ends of the series, are moving in almost the opposite direction, both receding at almost the same rate from a point in the sky not far from Vega.

At the rate at which either of these groups of stars is apparently moving, it would take it about 150,000 years to traverse the distance between the Pointers.

With these data in mind, it is not hard to figure out what the Dipper looked like 100,000 years ago, or how it will appear as long hence. In neither cases does the result bear much resemblance to the present form, though the five central stars are almost unchanged in relationship.

There is little doubt that these stars are really moving together, like the more numerous group in Taurus discussed by Professor Boss, of which we spoke a few months ago.

Dr. Ludendorff of Potsdam, in a very recent paper, from which many of the above data are taken, finds that these stars are all receding from a common "radiant point," which lies about half way between the stars in Ursae Majoris and Pollux.

Since these stars are apparently opening up—getting further apart—they must be approaching us. Spectroscopic observations show that this is really the case, the velocity of approach varying from seven to ten miles per second. From this rate, combined with the apparent motion of the stars in the sky, it is possible to find the distance of these stars, just as Bess did for the group in Taurus.

It appears that these five stars—or rather, seven, for the two companions of Mizar belong to the group—are all at about the same distance from us—between ninety and 100 light years, of about 6,000,000 times the sun's distance. The distance from one end of the group to the other is about four times the distance of Sirius from the sun, so that these stars, though evidently belonging together in some fashion, are not very near neighbors, even as the stars go.

The two other stars of the Dipper, though having no relation with the five, are not improbably connected with one another as the five are. Working on this hypothesis, Ludendorff finds that their distance is very nearly the same as that of the other group, so that all seven stars of the Dipper are really about as near one another as they seem to be. But, on account of their very different direction of motion, these two stars will in the lapse of ages separate from the five, so that they are only temporary neighbors—for a little matter of half a million years or so. All these stars are much brighter than the sun—from thirty to 120 times as bright according to Ludendorff's data.

The most fascinating feature of such researches is the power they give us to foresee the remote future. One million years hence, the five stars of the Dipper will be nearer us than they are now, and brighter if they keep on shining the same as ever. Two million years hence they will have begun to recede. By this time the following ones in their motion will have caught up with the leaders, so that all five will be bunched together in a small region, perhaps not larger than the present Dipper bowl. As they recede farther, they will grow fainter; and five million years hence they will, even if of the same real brightness as now, be hardly visible to unaided eyes like ours. It is almost too bold for speculation to follow them farther.

The other constellations need not detain us long. Below Ursa Major, in the north, are Ursa Minor and Draco, with Cassiopeia low on the horizon. In the northwest, also low, is Auriga. Orion has almost set, but Gemini hangs above his grave, and Procyon can be seen, a little farther to the left. Leo is high in the southwest. Below him, Hydra stretches its enormous length.

Due southward, almost on the horizon, the Southern Cross can be seen, but only from points as far south as Florida.

Virgo is near the meridian, well up in the sky. Scorpio is rising in the southeast.

Arcturus is high in the east. Corona and Hercules are below him on the left, in line toward Vega, which had just risen.

The Planets.

Mercury is evening star all through May and is well visible in the middle of the month—best about the 20th when he is apparently farthest from the sun. At this time he is in Taurus, twenty-five degrees north of the celestial equator, and does not set till 9 p. m., so that the present elongation affords an exceptionally good opportunity to see this innermost planet of our system.

Venus is just past inferior conjunction, behind the sun, and is practically invisible all through the month, though theoretically an evening star, setting less than half an hour after sunset.

Mars is in quadrature, west of the sun, on the 13th, and at this time rises about 1 a. m., and is due south at six in the morning. He is in Aquarius, a long way from any bright star, and is the brightest object in the southeastern morning sky though nearly three times as far away, and only one-tenth as bright, as he will be four months hence.

Jupiter is almost opposite Mars in the heavens, and is in quadrature on the 27th, at which time he is due south at 6 p. m., and sets half an hour after midnight.

Saturn is morning star in Pisces, rising about 2:15 a. m. in the middle of the month. Like Mars, he is far from any bright star, and so is easy to identify.

Uranus is in Sagittarius, and is observable in the early morning, best about 3 a. m., when he is near the meridian.

Neptune, which is in Gemini, is so low in the west at dark that he cannot be well observed.

The Moon.

The moon is full at 7 a. m. on the 5th, in her last quarter at 5 p. m. on the 12th, new at 9 a. m. on the 19th, and in her first quarter at 8 p. m. on the 26th. She is nearest us on the 16th, and farthest away on the 28th; her distance, and therefore her apparent diameter, varying about ten per cent. She is in conjunction with Uranus on the 10th, Mars on the 12th, Saturn on the 16th, Venus on the 19th, Mercury on the 21st, Neptune on the 22nd, and Jupiter on the 26th. On the evening of the 20th, the young moon and Mercury will be quite close together. This will be a good time for the novice to make sure of the planet.—By Henry Norris Russell of Princeton university observatory in Scientific American.

LITTLE SCIOTO AGAIN.

Editor Star:—This stream floods the adjacent farms every time a heavy thunder shower or a day's rain comes. This is owing to practically no channel for the vast amount of water running from tile drains and open ditches which have been permitted in the last decade to be constructed into it. This so-called river, which is not now as good as a common ditch, only needs a good, deep, broad, straight cannel to remedy all this thousands of dollars' loss every year to the tax-payers along its course. The injury to them is now "great and irreparable." It is a sickening sight to now see hundreds of acres just coming up in oats covered with water and killed, entailing loss of labor and products to the hard-working farmers of the country. Quite a contrast from last summer, when for weeks there was not a drop of water for long distances in the so-called river, same looking like a ditch or dead stream rather than a "living" one. All this needs is a good channel, which will not cost to exceed $3.50 to five dollars per acre, and will pay for itself in saving crops in one year after completion.

GROOMING COUNTS

But it cannot make a Fair Skin or a Glossy Coat.

Women with good complexions cannot be homely. Creams, lotions, washes and powders cannot make a fair skin. Every horseman knows that the satin coat of his thoroughbred comes from the animal's "all-right" condition. Let the horse get "off his feed" and his coat turns dull. Currying, brushing and rubbing will give him a clean coat, but cannot produce the coveted smoothness and gloss of the horse's skin, which is his complexion. The ladies will see the point.

CONFIRMED PROOF

Residents of Marion Cannot Doubt What Has Been Twice Proved.

In gratitude for complete relief from aches and pains of bad backs—from distressing kidney ills—thousands have publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. Residents of Marion, who so testified years ago, now say their cures were permanent. This testimony doubly proves the worth of Doan's Kidney Pills to Marion kidney sufferers.

Mrs. B. Rice, 231 Lincoln Ave., Marion, Ohio, says: "I hold a very favorable opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills, having used them in my family with beneficial results. Some ten or twelve years ago, we first procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Schmidt & Co.'s pharmacy and they proved to be a genuine kidney medicine, living up to all the claims made for them. At that time I freely gave a statement for publication recommending Doan's Kidney Pills and now I can say that lapse of time has not changed my opinion of them. I willingly give this excellent kidney medicine my re-endorsement."

IS THE FORMER PASTOR OF A RICHWOOD CHURCH

Rev. James W. James Dies at Sunbury.

LIVES IN VILLAGE NUMBER OF YEARS

Miss Opal Miller Is Hostess to the Members of the Queen Esther Circle—An Excellent Program Provides Entertainment During the Evening—Richwood Notes.

Richwood, May 11.—[Special.]—Rev. James W. James died, Wednesday, at his home in Sunbury, after a lingering illness of diabetes and complications. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. James lived in Richwood from 1877 to 1891, the former being pastor of the local Baptist church during his fourteen years' residence here. Probably no one ever lived in Richwood who was more universally respected and loved by his fellow citizens of all denominations. Leaving Richwood in 1891, Rev. Mr. James preached at Jackson, then Fredericktown, and two years ago accepted a call to Sunbury. Since locating there he helped his congregation to build a handsome new church. He resigned his pastorate two months ago on account of his fast failing health. The deceased was born in Aberdale, South Wales, in 1819. He began preaching when but fourteen years of age. He came to America when a young man and studied in schools in Pennsylvania. He married Miss Sadie Williams, of Thomastown, Summit county, and no children were born to their union. Funeral services were held, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, from the Baptist church at Sunbury, Rev T. P. James, of Van Wert, Rev. Mr. Julian, of Columbus, and Rev. [illegible] of Richwood, having charge of the services. The remains were taken to Akron for interment.

Mr. and Mrs F. F. Fisher and daughters, Misses Gertrude and Dorothy, arrived in Richwood, Friday night, from Muskogee, Oklahoma, to which city they moved fifteen months ago, from Richwood. They will spend three weeks with Mr. Fisher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Fisher, and with the Prichard families. Mr. Fisher is employed as overseer of a government school farm for Indian children, near Muskogee.

Loren Freeman was called to Alexandria, Friday, by the death of his sister, Mrs. Minerva Fay, who died Thursday night

The Richwood Gazette force spent Thursday fishing on the banks of the Scioto river, near Radnor. A picnic dinner and supper were enjoyed and about two dozen nice fish were caught by the party, which was composed of the following: George W. Worden, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Ketgley, Mr and Mrs O T. Boggs, Miss Mary Jones, Messrs. Cutler Cahill and Fred Mead.

Mrs. Howard Kline and little daughter, of Albany, Ohio, have been guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, of south Franklin street, since Friday.

Mrs. G. S. Collier, daughter Mayme and son, Paul, spent Friday in Marion.

James W. Crawford, of Delaware, was the guest, Wednesday, of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Thornhill, of east Blagrove street.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mealey, of Delaware visited Mrs. Margaret Mealey and Mrs. R. D. Roberts, Wednesday.

Miss Opal Miller, at her home on west Domford street, was hostess to the Queen Esther circle of the M. E. church, Friday evening, this being the regular meeting for the month. A program was rendered, consisting of piano solos by Misses Pearl Boyd, Margaret Spangler and Ruth Jolliff and readings by Misses Hazel White and Verta Howard.

Mrs. A. J. Lewis, of Marion, was the guest, Thursday and Friday, of Mrs. R. D. Roberts, of west Blagrove street.

Mrs. F. M. Debolt visited relatives in Marion, Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Alona Biddle and daughter, Mrs. Clarence Hill, were in Marion, Friday.

Chester Cahill returned home, Friday evening, from Ashville, North Carolina. Mr. Cahill left Richwood two months ago for the South, spending the time at Chattanooga, Lookout mountain and Ashville.

Mrs. Amos Tanner left, last week, for Toledo, where she consulted specialists in regard to her health, which has been failing for several weeks past. She was accompanied to Toledo by her brother, Dr. John Chambers, of Bays, Wood county. Mrs. Tanner will spend some time at her brother's home at Bays.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Hill spent Friday in Columbus.

Mrs. Clarence Hill was hostess to the Ladies' Aid society of the Christian church, Thursday afternoon, at her home on north Franklin street. A pleasant afternoon was spent and luncheon was served by the hostess.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church was entertained, Friday afternoon, by Mrs. George Hancock, at her home on north Clinton street. The following program was rendered: The sixth chapter of the study, "The Nearer and Farther East," was read by Miss Cora Ramage, the subject for the afternoon being Burmah; Mrs. T. J. Williams gave a reading entitled, "District Meeting at Ruralville," "A Worker's Plea" was the subject of a reading by Mrs. J. F. Ledley. Mrs. D. C. Copp and Mrs. Willis Hancock were guests of the society. The ladies are planning to give a tea in the church parlors, June 4.

Dr. Lorena Kagay and her brother, C. E. Kagay, entertained a number of friends in a delightful manner, Thursday evening, at their home on north Franklin street. The hours were spent socially and luncheon was served.

The Richwood High school baseball team was defeated by the High school team of LaRue, Friday, by a score of three to two. The game was played at LaRue.

JOHN W. TYNAN GETS VERY NICE PROMOTION

He Becomes Wire Chief of the Burlington Lines.

HE LEAVES MARION TO ASSUME DUTIES

Will Be Located at Lincoln, Nebraska—Successful Career of a Marion Boy Long Engaged in the Service of the Erie—Visitors at Various Railroad Offices—Notes.

John W. Tynan left, Monday night, for Lincoln, Nebraska, where he will make his future home. Tynan has been appointed wire chief of the Burlington route lines He has been connected with the Erie RN telegraph office at this point for a number of years, and has been holding a position as chief operator. Tynan is known as one of the most capable men along the line and the news of his new appointment will come as an agreeable surprise to his many friends.

In the consolidated suits to enforce the statutory liability against the stockholders of the old Columbus, Shawnee & Hocking Railway company to pay the debts of the company, a litigation that has been pending in the courts for years, the supreme court Tuesday morning announced an opinion which holds the stockholders for a twenty-five per cent. assessment on their stock and amounting in the aggregate to about $800,000.

The traveling public is complaining of the new Erie time card, claiming that the schedule is such that a very poor service is given between the small stations. For instance, between here and Kenton, Sundays, there is but one train west that stops there between 10 o'clock in the morning and midnight. Then also between even smaller stations on Sundays there is practically no service they claim.

The funeral of William Leicht the Erie fireman who died, Sunday afternoon, from scalds received in a wreck, Saturday night, at Spencerville, was held Tuesday afternoon from the deceased's late residence in Huntington The services were in charge of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen.

Health Conference.

The eighth conference of the state board of health with health board representatives from towns of less than 3,000 will be held in Toledo, June 17 and 18. Representatives from townships in a number of counties of the state, including Marion, will also attend the conference.

By the aid of electro-chemical production of manures containing atmospheric nitrogen, Germany expects soon to largely decrease its importation of saltpeter from Chile.

The exports of dolls and toys from Coburg to the United States during 1908 amounted to $1,920,965, as compared with $2,862,446 in 1907, a decrease of $941,481.

COMPLAINT LODGED AGAINST PRINCIPAL

Earl Ruhlman Tells Board Story of His Punishment.

HEAD IS BUMPED AGAINST BRICK WALL

Lad Is in Care of a Physician, It Is Alleged—Another Complaint of Recent Date—An Investigation Is Ordered—Arrangements for Memorial Day—Other Business.

Sixteen-year-old Earl Ruhlman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elias E. Ruhlman, residing on Gurley avenue, is absent from his second-year High school studies because of alleged injuries sustained to his head as a result of punishment inflicted by C. H. Winans, principal of the High school Monday night. Mr. Ruhlman and his son appeared before the board of education at its regular meeting

"Gentlemen," said the father, "I am here to protest, not against the proper punishment of my boy in the schools but against the manner, the method, if you please. My boy was unable to attend school today because of the treatment he received at the hands of Mr. Winans, who knocked his head against a brick wall so severely that he is now unable to read His neck also showed the prints of the principal's fingers where he had clutched him. A physician has been treating my son ever since the affair happened last Friday afternoon."

"What caused the trouble?" asked a board member.

Mr. Ruhlman replied that the boy thought he was being punished for something entirely different from what he was really being disciplined for. The boy was asked to tell his own story. In a straightforward manner the youth related that he and other boys had been catching bees in the yard. Some of the boys released the bees in the room, but he declared that he did not. Later, he said, he was told to call on Principal Winans by his teacher. He had done something in his class, he said, that he ought not to have done, and supposed that he was sent there for that purpose. The bee incident had slipped his mind, he said. He went to the principal's room at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. He declared that Mr. Winans invited him to sit in a chair near a wall, then seizing him started to shake him, his head striking the wall.

"Every time I tried to get away or get up," said the boy, "Mr. Winans would place his knee in my stomach and push me back. For a year or more I have been taking treatment so that I might get my studies Now as a result of the punishment to my head I cannot study; I cannot read."

"I was under the impression that the time had passed in the High school when boys were 'rammed around,'" commented Member George B Christian.

Superintendent H L. Frank said that he had not learned of the affair until Monday and then only in an incidental way. Mr. Winans was severely criticised for not having reported the matter to Mr Frank

"It seems to me that Mr. Winans has been going along some time ignoring the superintendent in certain matters which he has no business to do," said Member J Wilbur Jacoby.

Superintendent Frank declared that in the absence of Mr Winans, the board ought not to be too hasty in its condemnation.

"There is always two sides to a story," said Member M. B. Dickerson.

A motion was adopted directing Superintendent Frank to investigate and to report to the board members as speedily as possible, with a view to holding a special meeting if the facts warrant such action.

This unusual step taken by the board is the climax to a sensational scene, which occurred at a special meeting of the board a week ago and which was suppressed by the newspapers for the good of the schools At that time Principal Winans threatened to resign because the board refused absolutely to support him in a contention he had with Oswald Wollenweber, Jr. The Wollenweber youth had been given sufficient zeros to cause him to fail to graduate this year because no excuse had been given for a half day's absence. Trouble followed between principal and father, and Mr. Wollenweber appeared before the board At this meeting it was shown that Principal Winans had not only ignored the rules of the board of education, but had overstepped all bounds of his authority.

When the board refused to support him Winans became white with rage. "I'll resign," he shouted, and proceeded to write out his resignation.

"Let him do it," said Member H Edmund Hill

Winans wrote on a slip of paper then tore it up "I'll have to have a little time to think this over to get the proper wording," he said

"You'd better sleep over it," suggested President W. B. Spaulding.

Finally, Winans said he would remain until the close of school, but would make no application for a place the next school year.

A resolution was passed directing the president and the clerk to call on the various bankers and notify them that in the future the board would demand two per cent. interest on their funds The board must pay the bank's six per cent interest on all borrowed money, without interest in return for the use of the board's money. A long discussion took place on the financial situation without anything new developing.

Member Christian presented a rough sketch of an athletic ground or field in the rear of the Central school-building "I am unable to decipher this out," he said On motion the matter was referred to the buildings and grounds committee The sketch referred to was made by one of the High school teachers

Several members said that a few complaints had been registered against the construction of a high board fence.

"I am in favor of leasing a ground somewhere, but I am not in favor of fixing up anything on school property where admission is to be charged for games," said Member Dickerson.

Superintendent Frank was asked to submit his nominations for teachers, June 14. He was also requested to prepare lists of the pupils to be promoted for a meeting of the teachers' committee to be held June 7

The superintendent reported that he had secured W. D Henderson, of Ann Arbor, for a speaker at the joint county and city institute to be held in August For commencement, he said he had secured Charles Frederick Goss, of Cincinnati, who will deliver the main address at the Grand opera-house.

A delegation from Cooper Post, No. 117, G. A. R., arrived at this juncture J B King asked the board to cooperate with the G. A. R. in the observance of Decoration day. "We want all the children on all the school pupils if possible, to take part in our exercises," he said. "There is nothing so grand or so beautiful as the part taken by children on Decoration day."

John J. Crawley, former president of the board of education, also made a short address in behalf of the G. A. R., of which he is a member.

A resolution was adopted requesting the teachers to organize the schools, under the direction of the superintendent, and take part in the Decoration day exercises.

The bills allowed amounted to about $500.

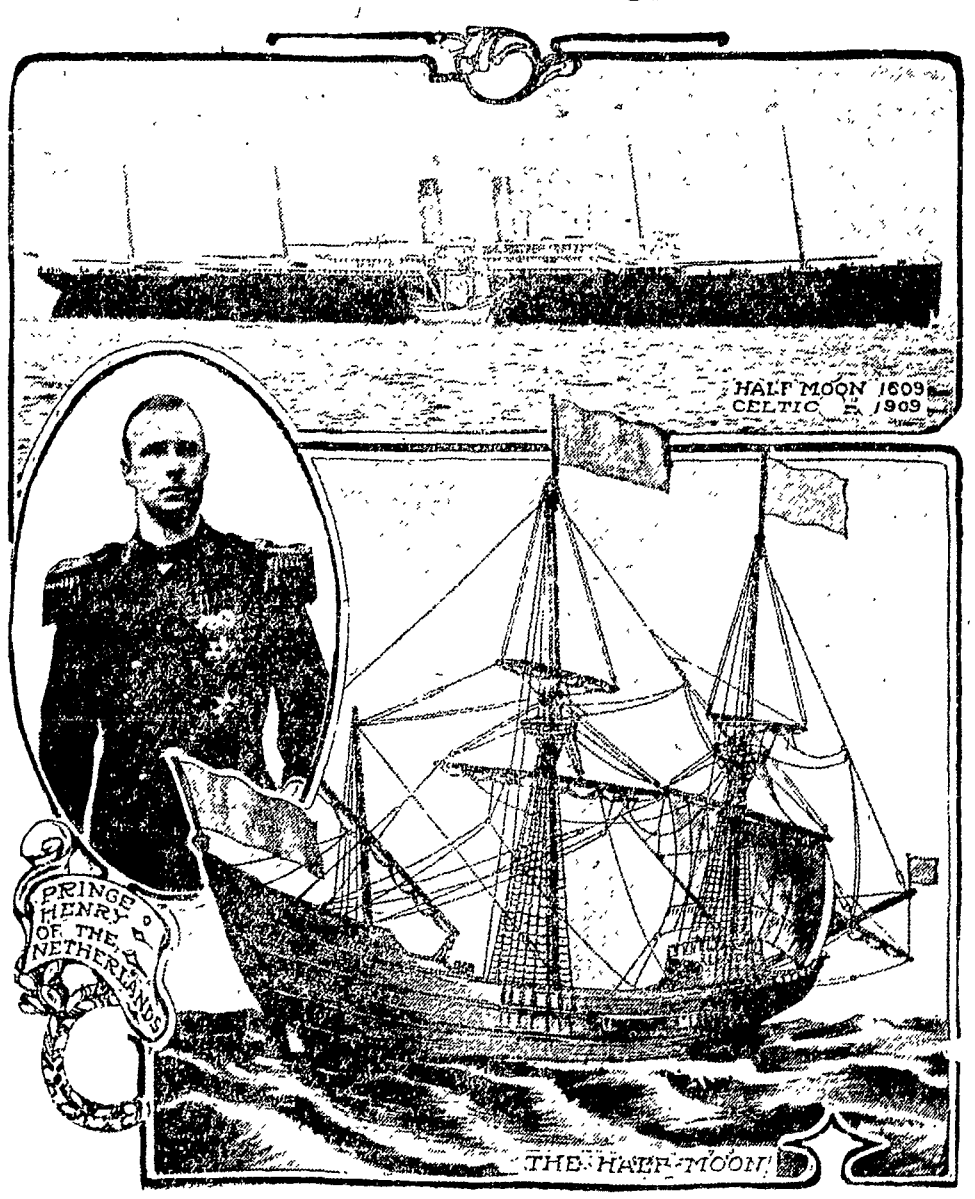
HOLLAND'S PRINCE AND SHIP HE SENDS TO THE HUDSON-FULTON CELEBRATION



Good progress is being made in completing the ship, Half Moon, recently launched from the navy yard at Amsterdam. This queer looking craft, which the people of the Netherlands are sending as a token of their friendship for America, is expected to prove one of the most attractive features of the naval parade to be held in connection with the Hudson-Fulton celebrations on the Hudson river in October. When rigged and fitted out the Half Moon will be an exact reproduction of the vessel sailed by Captain Hudson centuries ago. The ship is built of heavy oak timbers and has the high poop and long-nosed prow only to be seen in old prints of ancient Dutch and Spanish galleons. She is of about eighty tons, length sixty-three feet, beam eighteen feet, and she draws seven and a half feet of water. Her crew will number twenty men. The Half Moon is being fitted with three masts and sails of ancient pattern, while her armament will consist of several antique cannon handed down from early generations of Dutch adventurers. She will be ready in July and will be shipped on one of the Holland-American liners for transport across the Atlantic On September 27 she will make her official entry into Sandy Hook, after which she will be handed over to the American committee in charge of the Hudson-Fulton celebration. Prince Henry of the Netherlands heads the committee in charge of the construction of the Half Moon.

THE ISTHMIAN OPTIMIST.

For real, downright ability to see the doughnut, to the utter exclusion of the hole, the chief of the Panama canal diggers takes first prize. The vacant space within the cake's rim has no effect upon the retinal nerves of Colonel Goethals; his vision is completely filled with the rim itself.

When the "toe" of the Gamboa dam slipped, in accordance with the detailed prophecy of those who said the dam could not be built safely, the colonel promptly declared that the slip was an act of Providence, that it was anticipated and desired.

A few months later, when a section of the railroad sank into the mire, the Goethals optimism never flinched It was all right, amounted to nothing, was expected, desired, looked forward to with anticipatory pleasure and backward at with pangs of real regret that the tracks did not sink further.

Now a special dispatch to a Philadelphia paper says an extensive landslide has occurred at the Cucaracha cut and is still in progress Is the chief flustered? Read "Colonel Goethals is making the landslide work for him. The material is falling entirely within the canal prism and will greatly facilitate the excavation work."

If anyone has any lingering doubt that the United States was preordained to dig the Panama waterway, let his doubts be resolved by this repeated manifestation of a higher power yoking nature to genius for the hastening of the work on the isthmus.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HELD TO GRAND JURY ON A MINOR CHARGE

Youth Is Followed to Prison by His Sunday-School Teacher a Faithful Friend—The Story of Young Willie Stiffler Who Throws Stones at Clarence Virden

Youthful Willie Stiffler cut a shame faced figure with his hands bound in front of him by a pair of bright steel nippers as he paraded up Center street from the union station to the office of Sheriff Stark by Marshal Lamb of LaRue Friday May 7 Scores of people looked wonderingly at the boy who so far as appearances were concerned might have been any desperate criminal

The boy even on the steps of the jail was locked up by Deputy Sheriff Cornelius Breen on a mittimus from the court of Justice A Amerine of LaRue He was held to the grand jury in bond of $200 for assaulting Clarence Virden another boy

Young Stiffler's Sunday school teacher came to Marion on the same train and followed Marshal Lamb with his prisoner to the sheriff's office When the marshal went away he asked the deputy sheriff if he could talk to the boy Stiffler's Sunday-school teacher was asked if the young prisoner had any parents

That's it said the prisoner's friend He just grew up He never had any raising I guess but since he came to LaRue from Hepburn several months ago he has never missed attending Sunday school yet He seems like a good boy but he hasn't any one to look after him

The Stiffler lad is now in jail as a result of trouble he had with the Virden boy Some time ago the lads had a fight in which it is said the Stiffler youth got the worst of it Last Wednesday night he met the Virden boy with two girls and hit him in the head with a stone The Virden youth a son of Mr and Mrs Charles Virden is now confined to his home suffering from an ugly wound

Stiffler is employed on the Big Four section Thursday he paid a fine for fighting with the Virden boy The fine and costs amounted to $6 50 Through Attorney Burke Hane of LaRue Mr Virden then filed an affidavit charging Stiffler with assault and on this charge he was held to the grand jury

CHURCH BUILDING SOMEWHAT DAMAGED

Wall of Calvary Church Sinks and Is Broken

As a result of the east wall of the Calvary Evangelical church sinking Saturday afternoon no services were held at that church Sunday During the past two weeks a force of men has been excavating under the church to enlarge the basement and fit it up for Sunday school purposes A retaining wall was constructed in the basement a short distance from the foundation to guard against any damage that might result from excavating

The drain to the east of the church did not carry the water away as it should and the heavy rain caused the east side to settle and go down about an inch The mortar in the retaining wall had never set and Sunday afternoon the foundation and a number of brick caved in and tore down a part of the retaining wall The structure which was a one time frame has a brick veneer of brick During Sunday afternoon the heavy rain caused the brick to fall out to a height of about two feet from the foundation regardless of the fact that jacks had been placed under the wall to guard against its caving The wall in the center is also bulged in nearly a foot at a height of ten feet

TWO GIRAFFES SHOT TUESDAY

Fall Before Unerring Rifle of Bwana Tumbo

ONE BUFFALO AND A LEOPARD KILLED

Two Leopard Cubs Are Also Captured

Colonel Roosevelt Is Happy Over Getting the Giraffes—One Is Killed While Running at Full Speed 400 Yards Away—Said To Be Finest Shot Colonel Has Made Seventeen Varieties Taken

Nairobi British East Africa May 12—Two giraffes one leopard and one buffalo killed and two leopard cubs captured are the latest addition to Colonel Roosevelt's hunting trophies according to messages that came from Machakos today The giraffes were shot late yesterday and Mr Roosevelt's delight at his success was accentuated by the fact that for more than a week he had been on a vain quest for this elusive game He had had several long distance shots at giraffes but not until yesterday did he get within range

One of the giraffes that fell yesterday was shot at a distance of 100 yards and while running at full speed Those in the party declared that it was the best shot Bwana Tumbo has yet made not excepting his feat on Sunday last when he dropped a charging rhinoceros bull when it was almost upon him

The giraffes and buffalo were both new additions to Mr Roosevelt's assortment of game which now stands at seventeen species

The buffalo was a fine specimen and was shot by the colonel just as it was breaking through the underbrush into the clearing All of yesterday's hunting was done a few miles south of Machakos

The disposition to be made of the two cubs has not been decided upon Mr Roosevelt would undoubtedly take them home with him but they are rather plentiful and he will probably wait until later in his hunt before bothering with live game

ANOTHER DEATH ON FARM IS FOUND

Rivaling in Horror That of Mrs Gunness in Indiana

Mariposa Calif May 12—While the authorities are investigating another death farm bearing in horror the famous Gunness farm near La Porte Indiana was revealed here today The authorities have found four skeletons in an old well on the farm of George McCoy near here and are hunting for more

TURKEY CASE GOES TO SUPREME COURT

Fifteen Dollars and Costs Involved in Matter

Columbus May 12—Turkeys are the cause of contention in a Miami county suit which has just reached the supreme court Joseph Printz a resident of the county near Troy raised a flock of morning and found that several fine turkeys he was fattening for the Thanksgiving table had disappeared over night His neighbor Mr Vincent Kimmell who lives down the road a few rods turkeys Printz set to be Kimmell's premises where upon looking the field over and finding he was one turkey short he went to Kimmell's house and demanded that the latter produce the bird Kimmell denied having the turkey but accompanied Printz to the latter's home Here they found a turkey which Printz declared was his Kimmell however insisted that the bird was his and that he had given a chattel to Printz who owned them Kimmell was that if he should be required to part with the turkey he would be accepted as prima facie evidence that he owned them but on the other hand if they were found to the Kimmell's domicile they should be proof they belonged there Printz would not take any chance on losing the turkeys and he sold them at once Mrs Kimmell sued him for alleged wrongfully conversion of property and got a verdict against him for $15 in a justice court The common pleas and circuit courts found for Printz and it is now for the supreme court to decide who owned the turkeys

EXPORT BUSINESS IS BADLY INJURED

The Effect of Manipulation of Wheat

Washington May 12 — The wheat manipulation at Chicago is rendered business in American flour impossible for months says Special Agent M H Davis who has been in Europe for several months investigating market conditions there in a report to the bureau of manufactures made public today

I confidently believe Davis continued that if the wheat speculators had let the market alone we should have exported at least two million barrels more of flour to Great Britain and Europe on the current crop than the figures will now be able to show Dealers everywhere were turning their attention to America influenced somewhat by the world done to regain their trade and they were finding that the improved quality of our product and better shipping service was telling in their favor Then in October the corner began to develop and trade was turned aside

TWENTY SINK WITH LAUNCH

Death Reaps Rich Harvest Near Pittsburg

OVERLOADING OF BOAT, THE CAUSE

Victims Employes of Pressed Car Works

Are In a Hurry To Reach Their Homes on the Opposite Side of the River from Mckees Rocks The Frail Craft Suddenly Dives for Bottom in Twenty Feet of Water—Ten Save Themselves

Pittsburg Pa May 12 — By the sinking of an overloaded gasoline launch 20 men were drowned in the middle of the Ohio river near Schoenville four miles below Pittsburg Of the 30 occupants of the boat only 10 are known to have escaped

All the men were employes of the Pressed Steel Car company at the McKees Rocks plant The men had been working overtime and left the works to cross the river in the launch The boat is said to have been intended for not over 0 persons and it is said it was dangerous to attempt to carry as many as 30 in it But all the men wanted to get across the river on the first trip of the boat and 30 of them crowded in

Man Expresses Fear

As the men started out in the boat one of them remarked that it seemed to him to be overcrowded and he feared it was not safe to attempt the trip In it Albert Graham the pilot and one of those missing is said to have replied that it was safe enough all right as he had had 2 persons in a previous trip No more was said about the load but when the boat reached the middle of the stream where the water is perhaps 20 feet deep it suddenly sank

There was no explosion no leak was sprung but the boat simply sank beneath the weight it had been bearing and went to the bottom As it sank it caused a suction which took many of the men down with it Others attempted to swim ashore but were chilled by the cold water and became exhausted before reaching the shore So far as is known but 10 of the men reached the shore

The missing are Albert Graham pilot and part owner of the boat George Thompson formerly of Altoona Pa Boots Oscar James Conner Walter Low Thomas Kennedy William Guthrie Henry Vogeler Dennis Murphy Tony Bole — Ruskey Louis Goldstein William Davis Joseph Lyle William Burke two brothers named Botts and three others whose names have not been learned

May Exceed Thirty

Pittsburg Pa May 12 —With three bodies already recovered and between twenty and twenty five still missing it is now believed that the number of workmen who lost their lives in the capsizing of a twenty four foot launch in the Ohio river opposite Mckees Rocks at night will exceed thirty Not until the river has given up all its dead will the exact number be known All the victims were workmen returning to their homes on the lower north side

KERMIT GETS BULL GIRAFFE

The Animal Is Unusually Fine Specimen

MUCH SMALL GAME KILLED WEDNESDAY

Party Will Reach Ju Ja Ranch Sunday.

May Stay with McMillan for a Week If Hunter Selous Will Agree Mission Visited by Colonel Roosevelt—Hopes To Visit All the Missions in the Protectorate During His Hunting Trip

Nairobi British East Africa May 12—Not to be outdone by his distinguished father Kermit Roosevelt has placed to the credit of his marksmanship a bull giraffe Messages today from the camp at Machakos told of Kermit's success in yesterday's hunting

Colonel Roosevelt had hoped to get another shot at the giraffes but the only one sighted during the day were on which the division of the party headed young Kermit which was even miles from the main division Kermit got a splendid shot at close range while the giraffe was running and one bullet sufficed to stretch the big body on the ground

Both of the giraffes shot by Colonel Roosevelt Tuesday were bulls and fine specimens The three game killed in the party in two days breaks the record of recent years for this part of the country

When Colonel Roosevelt found that Kermit had killed a giraffe he shipped the messenger on the back and with a characteristic enthusiasm exclaimed Good work my boy!

Visit to American Mission

Colonel Roosevelt set out today to visit the American mission 4 days march from the railroad Preparations have been made to give him a hearty welcome

Tomorrow the party will break camp at Machakos and start for George McMillans Ju Ja ranch It will reach there Sunday if the present schedule is followed and will remain until May 20

Members began Roosevelt to have remained longer saying the shooting game were never better than at Selous will accompany the party to the ranch the McMillan ranch is well

The present plan however is for the Selous expedition to start in May and Selous who is said to be the greatest hunter in Africa is anxious to finish it as soon as possible

The visit to the American mission is the first series of visits that Mr Roosevelt will make to the various missionary fields in the protectorate He announced upon his arrival in Africa that he was greatly interested in the work the foreign missionaries are doing and would gladly visit as many of them as possible

CAPTAIN HAINS FOUND GUILTY

Jury Returns Verdict of Manslaughter Today

THE VERDICT IS A GREAT SURPRISE

It Is Supposed That Jury Would Disagree

Such Is the General Feeling Despite the Fact That the Attorneys of Each Side Claim That They Are Sure To Win Out—State Loses After Hours Summing Up and Court Delivers a Technical Charge

Flushing N Y May 14 Despite all the testimony submitted by the defense as tending to show insanity Captain Peter C Hains Jr U S A was convicted of manslaughter in the first degree for killing William E Annis at the Bayside Yacht club last August and now faces a prison term of from one to twenty years

The conviction of the young army officer after the jury had been out less than three hours came as a general surprise It had been expected that the jurors would deliberate much longer and that a verdict of acquittal on the ground of insanity or a disagreement would result

Unlike the scenes attending the trial of Thornton Hains the defendants brother who was acquitted of complicity in the same crime there was no demonstration in court when the verdict was rendered Captain Hains stood up and faced the jury squaring his shoulders thrown back in military fashion while Foreman Sundling recited the verdict As he heard the decision of the jurors Hains face was white as chalk He stood for a few moments motionless staring at the jury after he heard the verdict Then one of his lawyers touched him and he quietly sat down

A few moments later apparently little affected by the verdict he walked from the courtroom with a steady step between his two lawyers and was taken back to the Queens county jail

How Jurors Voted

After the jury was discharged Juror William Craft said four ballots were taken On the first three ballots six voted for murder in the first degree and six for acquittal on the ground of insanity On the fourth ballot the compromise of manslaughter in the first degree was reached Little consideration was given to the expert testimony They believed he continued that Mrs Claudia Hains the defendants wife had made a confession to her husband of improper relations with Annis and that Annis deserved his fate but none of them would consider the unwritten law and therefore the manslaughter verdict resulted

Quickly following the young army officers conviction his counsel announced that they would produce affidavits to show that the jury had not been properly guarded during the trial and upon this allegation will urge that a new trial be granted These affidavits will be submitted on Monday the time set for passing sentence and for any motions that the defendants counsel desire to make There will of course be the usual motions to set aside the verdict as against the weight of evidence and contrary to law but the unguarded jury feature is the only departure from the stereotyped procedure looking to a new trial

IS TERRIBLY CRUSHED IN TRACTION ACCIDENT

Reece McCloskey Caught Between Car and Stump.

THE CAR JUMPS TRACK ON CURVE AT PROSPECT

Two Trees Are Broken Down by the Car and Motorman Is Caught in the Forward End of the Wreck. Injured Man Brought Here for Surgical Attention.

Pinned between the stump of a tree and one of the large express cars of the C., D. & M. for over fifteen minutes, suffering unspeakable agony, was the frightful experience of Reese McCloskey, a motorman, Friday evening about 9 o'clock at Prospect.

McCloskey was at the motor of the express car, which was returning to this city. As he approached the curve at Eighth street, he attempted to put on the air to slacken the speed of the car. The air refused to work, but McCloskey stuck to his post working every available means to stop the fast-going car. However, his efforts brought no response and the car dashed around the corner, jumping the track. It struck two trees, breaking them both off a short distance from the ground and when it stopped it was within a few inches of the home of Mrs. George Fleming. Conductor J. W. Smith managed to work himself free through the door and rushed at once to the assistance of the motorman. He heard the groans of the man and found him pinned between the stump of a tree and the heavy machinery of the front part of the car. A large crowd assembled in a short time and by a concerted effort, they managed to extricate the suffering man from his perilous position.

McCloskey was taken into the Philip Gast home, where Drs. A. Shuey, A. L. Gast, and C. W. McNeill were called. They rendered all possible assistance to the victim. The motorman was in too serious a condition to make a thorough examination of his injuries. He was conscious all the time. He was brought to the Dr. C. E. Sawyer Sanatorium on the ten-o'clock interurban car by Dr. McNeil.

The car was a complete wreck, being so badly demolished that it is almost impossible to identify it as a car. The track was torn up for some distance.

Dr. A. Rhu, the company's surgeon is in charge of the injured man. His recovery is very doubtful. He suffered severe injuries about the hips and the organs about the pelvis were jammed up into the body cavity.

McCloskey is a resident of the city, living on Davids street. He has been married but a year.

"We are not liable to certain kinds of wickedness which there is real danger of his writings inculcating; for it is a lamentable fact, as is so often the case with a certain type of mystical zealot, there is in him a dark streak which tells of moral perversion. That side of his teachings which is partially manifested in the revolting Kreutzer Sonata can do exceedingly little damage in America, for it would appeal only to decadents; exactly as it could have come only from a man who, however high he may stand in certain respects, has in him certain dreadful qualities of the moral pervert.

Comic Rather than Serious.

"The usual effect of prolonged and excessive indulgence in Tolstoyism on American disciples is comic rather than serious. One of these disciples wrote a book on American municipal problems ascribed our ethical and social shortcomings in municipal matters in part to the sin of 'militarism.'

"Militarism as an evil in our social life is as purely a figment of the imagination as the skylark in our literature. Moreover, the fact that in spite of his total absence of militarism, there is so much that is evil in our life, so much need for reform, ought to show persons who think that the destruction of militarism would bring about the millennium how completely they lack the sense of perspective.

"So much for Tolstoyism in America, the only place where I have studied it in action. As to the effect in Russia itself, I am not competent to speak. But the history of the duma proved in the most emphatic way that the greatest danger to liberalism in Russia sprang from the fact that the Liberals were saturated with just such folly as that taught by Tolstoy."

OBITUARY.

Barbara Renz Gearhiser, was born in Wittenberg, Germany, October 22, 1825, and departed this life at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. D. Curren, in Marion, Monday morning, May 3, 1909, aged eighty-three years, six months and eleven days. At the age of seven years she was brought to America by her parents, Sabastian and Margaret Renz. The family first located in Columbus, but after residing there for eight months removed to Morrow county. In 1845, she was united in marriage with Jacob Gearhiser, and located on the old Gearhiser homestead in Waldo township, Marion county. To this union were born twelve children, ten sons and two daughters; Catherine, George, Elizabeth, Frederick, Henry, Lewis, Jacob, Sebastian, John, Edward, William and Charles. The husband and father's death occurred, November 21, 1872. Mrs. Gearhiser united with the Evangelical Lutheran church near her home in Delaware county, and the vows which she then made she sacredly kept, by the grace of God, to the hour of her death. After having suffered some time from a complication of diseases, she peacefully and in faith triumphant, fell asleep in Jesus. She leaves to mourn their loss, eight sons and two daughters, two sons, Frederick and Edward having preceded her. The surviving children are: George, of Marion; Henry, William, Charles and John, of Waldo; Lewis and Sabastian, of Parsons, Kansas; Jacob, of Greenwood, Mississippi; Mrs. J. D. Curren, of Marion, and Mrs. J. C. Wiseman, of Van Wert. She also leaves one brother, Fred Renz, of Cardington; twenty-two grandchildren, twelve great-grandchildren, and a host of other relatives and friends. Mrs. Gearhiser was one of the pioneers of this county, and passed a long, useful and honorable career. She had her weaknesses and faults, but of virtues she had more. Many things might be said to her praise, but the highest tribute that we can bring is this: She was a God-fearing, Christian woman. Indeed throughout the long period of her life she fought the good fight and kept the faith. What an example! What an inspiration! What a comfort! May this memory stimulate and persuade the friends and children to follow after. Complete and happy then will be the reunion in the kingdom to come.

Mrs. Mary Crowell, of Byron, Illinois, raises the finest hogs in the county where she resides. Not long ago a buyer of hogs for a packing house declared that although he was not in favor of giving all women the ballot it did seem a shame to him that a woman who could raise as fine hogs as Mrs. Crowell shouldn't be allowed to vote. The suffragists of Illinois at once demanded if raising hogs was better than raising children.

The olive oil industry is an old one in Syria. Some of the producing trees are 300 to 500 years old, while others were planted by the Crusaders.

RICHWOOD WILL NOT OWN ELECTRIC PLANT

Project Is Defeated in an Election Monday.

AN ADJUSTMENT OF TROUBLE HOPED FOR

Richwood Is Without Light a Long Time—J. W. Howser Sells His Meat Market to Firmin Browning. A Memorial Service for a Late Pastor—Richwood Notes.

Richwood, May 14.—[Special.]—The municipal election held, Monday, for the purpose of allowing the citizens of Richwood to express their choice in the matter of street lights, resulted in a vote of 254 in favor of municipal ownership of an electric light plant and 192 in opposition to the measure. It required two-thirds of the total number of votes cast for either side to carry. It will be seen that a large majority was in favor of private ownership. Had the entire vote of the village been cast, the majority was still large enough to have defeated municipal ownership. The fight has been very bitter from the time the ten-year contract with the Richwood Light, Heat & Power company expired, November 1 1908, and it was several months before the village council could agree on holding the election, there being a tie which existed for weeks. However, the people have expressed their wishes in the matter and the council will now advertise for bids for lighting the streets and it is hoped here that the question will soon be satisfactorily settled.

J. M. Howser has sold his meat-market on east Blagrove street to Firmin Browning, a son of O. D. Browning, who conducted a meat-market in Richwood a number of years. The market will be moved to the Sanders building, on west Blagrove street.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Tanner, of Columbus, spent Saturday and Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Graham and Mrs. Anna Tanner.

One of the largest congregations ever assembled in the Baptist church here, was present, Sunday morning, at the special service held in memory of the late Rev. James W. James, who was pastor of the church from 1877 to 1891. His death occurred Wednesday, May 5, at his home in Sunbury, and funeral services were held Saturday morning. At the service Sunday, Rev. L. S. Colborn, the local pastor, who was one of the officiating ministers at the funeral, read a beautiful eulogy on the life of the dead minister, who was revered by all who knew him. Rev. Mr. Colborn, at the close of the memorial service, delivered one of his forceful sermons, which held the undivided attention of the large congregation until its close.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Andrew, at their home on south Franklin street entertained the following guests, Saturday night and Sunday: Mrs. C. F. Jones and son, Loy and Miss Mae Spangler, of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Hall and daughter, Miss Mildred, of Lima; Misses Katherine and Mary Andrews, of Mansfield. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews will leave in a few days for Vinita, Oklahoma, to make their future home. They have purchased the Blacks one hotel, the leading hostelry in that city, and will take possession of the same within the near future.

Judge Harmon had much to say during his last campaign about the surplus in the state treasury. He will have a deficit to defend in his next one. It is notable also that he and his spokesman, the state treasurer, talk much of increasing state revenues by finding new forms of taxation when what is needed is a reduction of state expenses to meet present revenues.

Until very recently, few of us realized that there was such a place as Mercer on the map, but the celerity of its court proceedings is bound to make it memorable for some time to come. Mercer has taught us how trials may be handled with expedition, and yet with justice to all. The Mercer method would be appreciated here in Marion county by all save, possibly, the professional jurymen.

The Press Post of Columbus says: "It is just like Governor Harmon to retire from the practice of law so as to give all of his time to the duties of his office. Ohio at last has a governor who believes public office is a public trust."

All of which is what is vulgarly known as tommyrot. During his incumbency of the office of governor, Mr. Harmon has retained the receivership of the C., H. & D. railway and has attended to other matters in which his law firm was engaged. Governor Foraker never appeared in any court or gave a legal opinion after he assumed the office. Judge Nash closed up his practice during his term. Major McKinley did not practice law while he was governor. James E. Campbell did not appear in court as an attorney during his term. Governor Harris, although having been admitted to the bar, has not practiced law for years. Governor Harmon has offended in this respect more than any of his predecessors.

LET US ADHERE STRONGLY TO AMERICAN PROTECTION

Not a few of those who are nowadays taking a whack at the Republican protective tariff policy, seemingly because it is the popular thing just now, would reverse their attitude if they were to make a few weeks' observation on the trend of things in industrial and commercial Europe. Amid all the discussion and clamor, one great fact stands undisputable—under the protective policy the United States of America have distanced the world industrially and commercially, and our only formidable rival today is the most strongly protected of European nations. We refer to Germany. There is the one great rival worth the closest watching. Germany is forging to the front at our own terrific pace and but for our vaster resources would be more than a dangerous rival. The German skill, persistence, industry and protective policy have made that nation master of their markets at home and winning competitors in the markets of the world. Next to Germany ranks France, though far less formidable in the conquest for commercial supremacy. And remember the great important fact, France is next to the rank of Germany as a protected county. England, once the mistress, where rivalry was looked upon with little less than contempt has undeniably lost her, lead, has drifted to worse than a standstill in international competition, until her own observant people are openly clamoring for a change of policy. Note the essential thing right here—England is the one great European nation adhering to a strictly tariff-for-revenue-only policy. England has her customs houses, and all attending irritations, but her duties are collected for revenue only, and her policy is as opposite to our protective policy as any nation can make it. England is ideal in theory, but a warning to us in practice. These things are great, indisputable facts, and ought to be convincing. Experience is worth a thousand beautiful theories. Here we are, industrially and commercially triumphant, the marvel of the world, grown to triumph under a strongly protective policy. But let us omit ourselves and ignore our triumphs. The struggles of the European nations teach us a living lesson, without bias or prejudice, and there they are. It takes no keen observation. The commanding German stride is apparent to the most casual observer. The thrift of protected France is in the atmosphere everywhere, and the hold England has lost, relatively at least, is bewailed in England on every side. Statistics emphasize these statements. Why, then, will Americans clamor headlessly for a change of policy, so fraught with danger to our industrial eminence? Every single attempt to seriously modify our policy has been marked by loss of prestige and attending stagnation, and the experience of the day and hour in Europe are all favorable to the protection that has made us world-dominant.

To be sure, there are schedules out of proportion to requirements, and need of changes, but we must never abandon the policy. The moment the question is opened up, it seems that the very flood-gates of American selfishness are opened. And all our envy and greed pours forth. Tariff preferences must necessarily be local. In a very narrow sense we could sympathize with the Florida statesman, who was seeking a popular nomination to the federal senate, and published widely this platform: "Down with the robber tariff, but ample protection against Egyptian cotton." See? The Florida interests were directly endangered by imported cotton. He wanted protection for the Florida industry, but lacked the national spirit that would provide the the same thing for Ohio wool. Thus Massachusetts wants protection on manufactured woolens, but would prefer cheap wool, though cheap wool would ruin the sheep industry of Ohio and Montana and all wool-growing states. A hundred similar illustrations might be quoted. There is forgetfulness that the nation is but the aggregate of communities and states and in the making of live, thrifty communities we have made a great nation.

Here is an assault on the protective tariff from Iowa, an assault from a battery flying the Republican flag. Iowa is a great, magnificent state. The union contains none more admirable, from a dozen points of view. As yet it is mainly agricultural, because the industrial fires have not been lighted there. Naturally her people would clamor for little or no tariffs, for, at first thought, it would cheapen the things they have to buy. But Iowa doesn't reckon on having less to buy with. We must not forget the matter of ability to purchase. In spite of her agricultural eminence, Iowa would hardly be worth while but for American industrial and commercial progress. Iowa wasn't worth considering till commerce threaded its matchless acres with steel rails and gave her an opening to a consuming market, and then, through industrial activity, enhanced that market. A little sober reflection will help to put the American hat on straight. Let us realize what we are and understand the processes that have led to triumph.

Abuses? Yes, many of them. Inequalities? Yes, far too many. Developed favoritism? Yes, indeed. These are the things for correction. But because the tariff has wrought great riches is no argument for its removal. Let us not tear down magnificent and most gratifying accomplishment, because local selfishness is crying out for cheapened gratification. Would Marion, for example, have its silk industry destroyed to cheapen silks a few cents per yard? Broaden the view a little. Lowered tariffs on silks would doubtless cheapen the price, though less perceptibly than imagined, but the thousands employed in that industry would cease to be able to buy, not silks alone, but the products of a dozen industries. Grant that our American prices are in many respects higher than they are abroad. It is an undeniable fact. But our American people have the means wherewith to buy. In that relation our prices are the cheaper. We are the more prosperous. We have outstripped all others in employment and wage, and meanwhile have elevated the standard of living. Let us not forget. The protective policy is inseparable from the astonishing American development, and the first essential to American triumph. We may change the schedules with mindfulness for all our varied interests, but we must not drift to abandonment of the policy.

The report that Colonel Roosevelt has slain something less than a score of lions has raised up a number of rather hysterical defenders for the king of beasts. But to us it occurs that Colonel Roosevelt could very easily engage in pursuits more dangerous to the public and himself. The lion is not very useful except from the menagerie standpoint, and Hagenback is breeding an ample stock of the tractable and house-broken variety. So it is just as well to let the colonel take it out on Leo. If he were shooting quail now or some other insect eaters, we would join in the protest.

The soda fountain seems to be a fizzical necessity in summer.

SOUTHERN WOMEN BELIE WOMANHOOD

Representative Hollingsworth, of Ohio, has elected himself the spokesman of those persons who object to the people of Mississippi placing the etched portrait of Jefferson Davis upon a service of plate donated by them to the battleship bearing the name of the state. In so doing, General Hollingsworth is magnifying a molehill into an imaginary mountain. We believe that the people of the North will look with kindly tolerance upon this attempt of the people of Mississippi to honor the leader of the "lost cause" to which they contributed so much in blood and treasure. In the great questions which divided the people of this country we believe that the South was wrong and that the intelligent people of that section now realize that fact and are now as patriotically devoted to the union as the people of New England. But it would be strange indeed if they did not hold in reverence the men who led them or their fathers in that sanguinary struggle. And it is well to remember that Jefferson Davis, before he went with his people into secession, was a gallant soldier in the United States army, that he shed his blood in the cause of his country on a Mexican battlefield; that he served with distinction as a senator of the United States and as a cabinet officer; and that he was granted amnesty for his later offenses against the flag. And so we can bear with equanimity the desire of the people of his own state, who shared with him his mistaken views and the punishment they entailed, to honor his memory. But we cannot have the same feeling with regard to the silly performance of the Daughters of the Confederacy in erecting a monument to the memory of Wirtz, the infamous. The latter was no leader of the confederacy. The North joins gladly with the South in paying tribute to men like Lee, Jackson, Longstreet, Wheeler and Bragg and their gallant comrades in arms. They take pride as Americans in their courage, ability and devotion even to the cause for which we had only condemnation. But Wirtz was a criminal who would have been a criminal in any environment. He was hanged by the federal authorities not as a confederate, not as a rebel against the authority of the government, but as the brutal murderer of many defenseless, helpless men, prisoners committed to his charge. He was not a martyr and the women who have united in this ill-advised attempt to canonize him belie their womanhood.

INFANT'S DEATH DUE TO NATURAL CAUSES

Doctors Are Badly Mistaken as to Babe's Death.

IS NOT STRANGLED AND BURIED SECRETLY

No Murder Mystery Coffined in Country Cemetery—Infant Is Son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Galleher, of Wilson Avenue—Physician Present When Little One Passes Away.

The male infant buried in the Underwood cemetery and made the subject of a post-mortem by Coroner W. H. Hinklin and Dr. H. W. Sager, who declared that the child had apparently been strangled to death, was not murdered. The babe, the one-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Galleher, of Wilson avenue, died a natural death.

"The child died in the arms of its grandmother," said Dr. G. T. Harding, Thursday. "The story that the child had been strangled is an infamous untruth. I was present when the child died."

The babe was born on the morning of April 21, prematurely. Dr. Harding, who attended the mother, says it was very weak and required fifteen minutes to resuscitate it. That evening, Dr. Harding called at the Galleher home to see the mother and her child. The grandmother was nursing the infant. The trained eye of the physician saw in an instant that the babe was dying, and before the doctor left the tiny spirit had fled.

The father of the child is but nineteen years old. He works at the shops of the Huber Manufacturing company. He is a son of Joseph William Galleher, who resides on Fairground street.

The day after the child died the grandfather took it to the Underwood cemetery, about noon, and buried it beside one of his own children. No attempt was made at secrecy.

"They said he only buried it eighteen inches deep," said the child's grandmother, Thursday. "That is not true. Mr. Galleher buried it at a depth of four feet. We placed it in a nice box, which we lined with muslin. It was such a tiny baby, but we buried it just as nice as we could. We did not know that it was necessary for us to get an undertaker."

The Gallehers are poor, but very highly-respected people. The father had little money, and thought that no harm was being done in thus burying it without first notifying the authorities.

SAMUEL H. WEST OPENS AN ATTACK

Makes Assault on Juvenile Court Procedure.

Columbus, O., May 13.—Samuel H. West, former senator from Logan county, has attacked the procedure of juvenile courts in prosecuting adults for non-support and contributing to delinquency of children. Mr. West, with F. M. McSweeney, represent Edward Murphy, who was found guilty by a jury in juvenile court of failing to support his five children. Mr. West contends that a prosecution of this kind cannot be maintained merely upon affidavit, but that information must be filed by the county prosecutor with the court, or indictment returned showing that a child was dependent before the adult can be prosecuted. Upon this ground he will carry the case to higher courts for a ruling. Mr. West is the author of the juvenile court laws.

COMMON PLEAS.

Harry Kennedy, a petit juror in the January term of court, was arraigned before Judge B. G. Young in the common pleas court, Wednesday. He pleaded not guilty to a nameless crime alleged to have been perpetrated upon his eleven-year-old daughter. His case was set down for trial, Wednesday, May 26. He will be defended by Attorney Harry N. Quigley.

The trial of Loring J. Smith, indicted for embezzlement, was set down for Thursday, May 27. He will be defended by Attorneys Scofield, Durfee & Scofield.

In the suit of Chapman and others against the Mirror Publishing company, Receiver J. Wilbur Jacoby filed his report of sale, Wednesday afternoon, in the common pleas court.

Charles Bennett and Roy Humes, indicted for burglary and larceny, were arranged before Judge B. G. Young, in the common pleas court, Thursday, and entered pleas of not guilty. Their trial was set for Tuesday, May 25.

The divorce action of Nellie Brewer has been dismissed, the Brewers have affected a reconciliation.

In the suit of Benjamin Waddel against Minnie A. Palmer and George Palmer, the defendant has filed a motion in the common pleas court asking the court to require the plaintiff to make his petition more definite and certain.

MR. E. K. UHLER BUYS MARION PARK SITE

He Acquires About Twenty-Three Acres of Land.

A deal has been closed by the Chase Real Estate company whereby Mr. E. K. Uhler acquires the site known as Marion park, recently relinquished by the C., D. & M. railway. The purchase covers about twenty-three acres of land, and the consideration is approximately $2500. The deed passes from John I. Court, who held the title, the railway company having held the land under a lease, with option to purchase. The land fronts the C., D. & M. line and Prospect pike on the east and borders the Scioto river on the west. It is an ideal spot for a country home.

W. P. HAZEN DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Death Is Result of Dropsy and Heart Disease.

W. P. Hazen, forty-two years of age died of dropsy and heart disease at his home, on Chester street, Wednesday night about 11 o'clock. His death had been expected some time.

Mr. Hazen was a native of Union county. He moved to Marion with his family from Woodland about two years ago. He is survived by a widow and the following children: Roy, Clifford, Amelia, Mildred and Lucile.

The remains were taken to Woodland for interment.

COLONEL CHRISTIAN BUYS MORE STONE

Acquires the Smith Quarry at White Sulphur Springs.

Colonel George B. Christian has been enlarging his stone quarry interests again. On Tuesday, at Columbus, Colonel Christian closed a deal whereby his company, The White Sulphur Stone company, became owner of the Smith quarry, located one mile east of Mr. Christian's White Sulphur plant in Delaware county. The newly-purchased quarry covers about fifteen acres of limestone, noted for its high quality of building rock. The plant will be operated to supply that branch of the trade.

BRIDE OF ONE YEAR DIES IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Albert Reidenbaugh Dies Wednesday Afternoon.

DEATH FOLLOWS A VERY SHORT ILLNESS

The Deceased Passes Through an Operation for Peritonitis a Few Hours Before Her Death—Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bondley. Reared in This County.

Mrs. Albert Reidenbaugh, who was thirty-three years of age, Monday, died at the Central Emergency hospital, Wednesday afternoon. The cause of her death is given as peritonitis. She was operated upon with a view to saving her life at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Reidenbaugh was a bride of little more than a year, having been married at Denver, Colorado. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bondley, who reside at Prospect. Besides the parents two brothers survive. They are Elmer R. Bondley, of this city, and Dr. C. J. Bondley, of Big Springs.

The deceased was born and raised in Marion county, and was well known.

The funeral of Mrs. Albert Reidenbaugh, who died at the Central Emergency hospital, Wednesday, was held from the Presbyterian church at Prospect, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. A. M. Chapin had charge of the services. Interment was made in the Prospect cemetery.

CASPAR DAUM FALLS ASLEEP IN HIS WAGON

Team Stops with Wagon on Railroad Tracks.

Caspar Daum, who does a draying business, probably owes his life to W. H. Houghton as a result of the latter being required to work rather late at the Houghton Sulky works, Tuesday night. About 11:15 o'clock, Mr. Houghton left the office for home. He noticed an object on the Erie tracks, about fifty feet east of Lincoln avenue. Returning to the sulky works he secured the watchman to assist him.

When the men reached the wagon, Daum was sound asleep under the seat and all efforts to awaken him were without success. The whistle of the engine of a passenger due to leave here at 11:19, could be heard as the train was approaching rapidly. The men unhitched the horses and after turning the wagon part way off the track, aroused Daum and moved him from his perilous position. The wagon was pulled from the tracks, and none too soon, for within a minute the passenger went by the scene at about a forty-mile-an-hour rate. Daum stated to the officers, who were later called, that he had moved a family on Farming street and was enroute to his home on Church street when he fell asleep and the horses turned down the track to the place where they stopped.

MRS. CHARLES FELTY DIES WEDNESDAY

The Passing of an Aged Resident of the City.

DEATH FOLLOWS AN EXTENDED ILLNESS

Message Is Received, Monday, Which Announces the Death of a Sister of Mrs. Felty in Richmond, Indiana. Mrs. Felty Leaves a Family of Grown Children.

Mrs. Mary Felty, seventy-nine years of age, widow of Charles Felty, whose death occurred fifteen years ago, died of paralysis at her home on west Center street, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. John Richards, a sister, who was well known in Marion, having visited here frequently, died of the same affliction at Richmond, Indiana, last Sunday.

Last November, Mrs. Felty was first stricken. Since that time she had been practically an invalid. Last week she was again stricken and for the past six days had been in a dying condition, only at short intervals regaining consciousness.

Tuesday evening, during a period of lucidity, after physicians had given up all hope for Mrs. Felty's recovery, she was informed of her sister's death in Indiana. Soon afterward she lapsed into unconsciousness and her death was hourly expected.

Mrs. Felty was born in Germany, and came to the United States in girlhood. She had lived in Marion fifty-five years, coming here from Delaware. She was a member of the First Presbyterian church.

The deceased is survived by the following children: Charles Felty, Gabriel Felty, Mrs. S. E. Selby, Mrs. C. H. Martin and Miss Etta Felty.

EUGENE HAND IS HELD TO ANSWER

Pleads Guilty to a Charge of Non-Support.

Eugene Hand, arrested at Harmony, Indiana, and returned here, Tuesday night, by Deputy Sheriff Cornelius Breen, to answer to a charge of non-support, was arraigned before Justice Charles E. Gompf, Wednesday. He pleaded guilty and was held to the grand jury in the sum of $300. He arranged to furnish bond.

Hand disappeared from his home in this city, last February, deserting his wife and six-year-old daughter, Ethel. Through Humane Officer J. W. Ulsh, Mrs. Hand filed an affidavit against her husband. He was arrested at the home of an uncle.

VERY LONG ILLNESS RESULTS IN DEATH

Mrs. William McBride Dies at Wyandot.

Mrs. William McBride, of Wyandot, mother of Mrs. Mary Cochran, of five miles northeast of here, died at her home Tuesday morning of a cancerous tumor, of which she has suffered for over a year. She was sixty years of age and is survived by her husband and three children. The funeral was held, Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock, from her late home, Rev. Glasson, of Morral officiating. The remains were interred in the Novada cemetery.

HENRY LOWMILLER IN BAD CONDITION

Does Not Recover from Effects of Accident.

Martel, May 13.—[Special.]—Henry Lowmiller, who was injured in the accident which resulted in the death of his companion, Eli Winters, last Saturday evening, is in a very serious condition. It is feared that he will lose his mind. Mr. Lowmiller, who fell on his head, has never fully regained consciousness.

RAILROAD.

To the alertness of James Coffey an Erie switchman, a stranger probably owes his life. Wednesday, about 11:30 o'clock, the Erie up-town switching crew was about to cross Main street, going west. Coffey was sitting on a flat car. As the train approached Main street, Coffey noticed the crossing watchman, William Gavin, calling to some one coming from the north. However, the man did not heed the watchman's warning. He was on the track and the car on which Coffey was seated was about to cross the walk. Coffey quickly reached over the edge of the car and pulled the man up onto it. The man was so frightened that he could not say anything. A brakeman on the train gave a signal for a stop and the cars were stopped quickly. After the man recovered from his fright he picked up his hat and walked away, saying nothing. Coffey's right leg was caught between the man's body and a large bolt on the edge of the car and was badly bruised. He was forced to lay off because of the accident.

C. J. Furnam has resumed his duties as Erie passenger conductor, after a two-weeks lay off. Mr. Furnam has moved his family to this city.

MRS. D. S. BRETZ DIES WEDNESDAY

Death Comes at Her Home in Village of Morral.

Mrs. D. S. Bretz died of congestion of the lungs and heart trouble at her home at Morral Wednesday at 12:10 o'clock. She had been sick some time.

Mrs. Bretz was born near Little Sandusky, November 7, 1837, the daughter of Jacob and Susannah Coon. September 1, 1859, she was united in marriage to Mr. Bretz, who with four children, survives. The children are Dr. S. C. Bretz and Mrs. Charles Swartz, of Nevada; Mrs. J. H. Ten Eyck and Mrs. J. H. Bardon, of Morral. One brother and two sisters also survive. They are George W. Coon, of Harpster and Miss Sarah Coon, of Upper Sandusky, and Mrs. L. S. Walton, of Sycamore.

The deceased was a devoted member of the Free Baptist church at Grand Prairie. The funeral services were held at the church, at Morral, Friday afternoon, Rev. J. A. Sutton, of LaRue officiating. Interment took place in the Grand Prairie cemetery.

YOUNG PEOPLE ARE JOINED IN MARRIAGE

Miss Lulu V. Lamb and Mr. Roy S. Tannyhill.

LaRue, May 13.—[Special.]—Miss Lulu V. Lamb was united in marriage to Mr. Roy S. Tannyhill by Rev. J. A. Sutton, at his home here, Wednesday evening. They were unattended.

Mrs. Tannyhill is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lamb, of this place, and is a charming young woman. Mr. Tannyhill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Tannyhill, residing three miles northwest of here, and is a well-known and highly respected young man. They will reside on a farm north of here.

Contract Is Let.

Among the local bidders for the work of constructing a pike in Morrow county known as Marengo, No. 1, the contract for which was awarded to W. H. Oberlander, of Bucyrus, for $11,637 56, were Brady, O'Connell & Molloy, M. W. Shaw & Company, and Carroll & Gruber. The engineer's estimate cost of 2.90 miles of road was over $13,000.

MRS. A. N. SAWYER DIES VERY SUDDENLY

Death Comes at Home of Son, Dr. C. E. Sawyer.

APOPLEXY IS CAUSE OF SUDDEN DEMISE

Dr. Sawyer Is Enroute to New York When He Receives Message Bearing Sad News—The Passing of a Christian Woman Who Is Held Dear by Many Local Friends.

Death's shadows crossed the threshold of the home of Dr. C. E. Sawyer, on Delaware avenue, Tuesday night, and Mrs. Harriet M. Sawyer, his aged mother, sank into that dreamless sleep which knows no earthly awakening. Death came unexpectedly. She died of apoplexy.

Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock Dr. Sawyer, her only son, bade her goodby before departing for New York, where he was going on business for a few days. At that time although an invalid for several years, she apparently was in better health than she had been for some weeks. When Dr. Sawyer's train was just leaving Youngstown he received a message informing him of her sudden death. He went on to Corey, Pennsylvania, where he boarded a westbound train for home, arriving here at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Sawyer was the widow of Alonzo N Sawyer, who died nearly two years ago. Tuesday evening, she was able to come down stairs to dinner and retired at about 7:30 o'clock. An hour later Mrs. C. E. Sawyer heard her call feebly and hurried to her side. She complained of feeling very ill. Dr. Carl W. Sawyer was hastily summoned from the sanatorium, but the aged lady was then beyond all human aid. She died about 10 o'clock. Her age was seventy-six.

Mrs. Sawyer was born in Concord, New Hampshire. Her maiden name was Rogers. August 18, 1856, she was married at Norwalk and lived with her husband more than fifty years. Forty years of that period were passed at Nevada. In 1901 she came to Marion with her husband from Nevada and had been living at the home of her son since then. Nearly all her life she had been a devout Christian, having joined the English Lutheran church half a century and more ago.

The funeral was held at the Sawyer home, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. E. F. W. Stellhorn officiating.

The funeral was limited to relatives and intimate friends. Interment took place in the Marion cemetery.

The damage done by rats in England alone is estimated to amount to many millions, and their capture already occupies a large number of persons.

MOVEMENT TO BETTER ROADS OF THE STATE

The Plans of the Ohio Good Roads Federation.

LINES OF ORGANIZED EFFORT FOLLOWED

M. M. Maxwell Is in the City with a View To Organizing a County Division of the Federation—No Selfish Aims Behind the Move for Better Roads—Meeting Soon.

M. M. Maxwell, of Cleveland, secretary of the Ohio Good Roads federation is in the city arranging for the organization of an auxiliary to the state organization in this county. This federation is incorporated under the Ohio statutes as an incorporation not for profit. Although organized for some little time, it has been incorporated but a month. It was thought by incorporating the federaion could work on a far more successful basis.

Mr. Maxwell explains that there are similar organizations in other states and much accomplished. He cited New York state, noted for its beautiful and substantial highways as a striking example where concerted action has accomplished a great deal. According to the allotment of the state appropriation, each county, this year, will receive approximately $5,500. Then from the automobile taxes and licenses, there is available for road improvement about $46,000.

The general plan is to perfect such an organization as will be strong enough to unite the scattering interested parties throughout the state to work in unison for the betterment of the highways. It is thought that with the cooperation of the farmers, the business men and the general business organizations the real purpose of organization can be accomplished.

By a centralization of interests, plans for a systematic as well as economic construction can easily be devised and the general interest between adjoining counties can more easily be fostered. Mr. Maxwell is emphatic in his statement that the organization is for no personal gains of any kind, but for mutual benefits. When the federation was started, a number of citizens of the state had been working in their respective counties to procure better roads. The work spread rapidly and yet, but little was accomplished. Realizing this, a number of prominent men throughout the state organized themselves into the federation. It is planned to hold a mass meeting here in the immediate future to discuss the matter.

YOUTH THE CAUSE OF AGOSTA BLAZE

Lad Lies on a Bed and Smokes, Tuesday.

A fourteen-year-old boy lying on a bed smoking, and carelessly leaving matches in the bed when he left the house, is supposed to have been the cause of a small blaze at Agosta, Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock.

During the afternoon, Mrs. Emma Monk left her home for a short time, and during her absence Mrs. Minnie Carey, a neighbor, noticed smoke coming from the house. Upon investigation she discovered fire in one of the rooms. She immediately gave the alarm and soon a crowd had gathered. John Dutton broke in the back door and found the bed in flames. A bucket brigade was formed and the fire was soon extinguished.

Benjamin Monk, the fourteen-year-old son of Mrs. Monk, had during the morning been lying on the bed smoking and it is the supposition that he dropped a match.

The department at Washington engaged in checking up Uncle Sam's resources have sent out letters by the million asking for information. They have already learned that the nation uses annually for fuel, fence posts and rails on farms something like 100,000,000 cords of wood.

CLEMENCEAU IS VOTED SUPPORT

Chamber of Deputies Indorses His Strike Policy.

LITTLE CHANGE IN SITUATION

Strikers Maintain Attitude of Confidence In Ultimate Outcome of Movement to Place. Postal Employes on Equal Footing With Other Workmen — Minister of Public Works Says Only Small Percentage of Men Have Quit Posts In Paris.

Paris, May 14. — Premier Clemenceau won another signal victory in the chamber of deputies, when that body after a turbulent session, by a vote of 545 to 59, indorsed the government's policy with reference to the postal strike.

The vote included the government's insistence that the postal employes and other functionaries have no right to strike. Immediately afterward the chamber passed a vote of general confidence in the government, 365 to 159.

The strikers received the chamber's rebuke with a shrug of the shoulders, declaring that it only served to bind closer their forces, which would soon startle the country by a big increase and a rapid extension of the general movement. On the other hand, it is intimated that the government has other plans in view to offset any serious growth of the strike.

Situation Remains Unchanged.

There was no change in the situation. If anything, it was in the direction of a weakening of the strike sentiment. The general conviction is that if the movement does not make vast strides today it is almost certain of complete failure.

M. Barthou, the minister of public works, posts and telegraphs, asserted during the debate that only 2,367 out of 24,205 postal employes in Paris and the department of the Seine are out, and that conditions in the provinces were even better.

Premier Clemenceau, in a typical epigrammatic speech, coolly concluded the exciting session with the declaration that it was merely a case where France must choose between revolution on the one hand and progressive evolution on the other, or between work, under republican law and order, and a spirit of adventure calculated to disorganize and rend the republic.

WILL LISTEN TO YANKEE

American Scientist to Tell British Ironmakers of His Researches.

London, May 14.—The Iron and Steel Institute of Great Britain, the membership of which comprises the leading metal experts of this country, with affiliations in other countries in which iron and steel manufacturing is carried on, met here today for its annual meeting.

One of the principal addresses to be delivered before the meeting is that of Dr. Allerton S. Cushing of Washington, who is assistant director of roads of the United States department of agriculture. Dr. Cushman has come here at the invitation of the members of the institute to tell them the results of his researches into the causes and nature of rust, a subject of immense importance to makers of iron and steel.

He has made important discoveries through the study of electrolysis and its deleterious effects upon iron and has also experimented with various paints, some of which have shown amazing rust resisting power.

ECUADOR IS ROCKED

Numerous Earthquake Shocks Reported In South America.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, May 14.—Ecuador has been experiencing earthquakes the last fortnight. Telegrams from Jipijapa, in the province of Manabi, announce that shocks have been experienced there since the first of the month, becoming more severe in the last few days. A dispatch from Quito says quakes were experienced there, and that the local seismograph recorded very strong shocks somewhere in the West Indies.

Retain Old Headquarters.

Boston, May 14.—Cedar Rapids, Ia., will continue to be the headquarters of the grand division of the Order of Railway Conductors. Although W. T. Taylor and Charles A. Bookwalter of Indianapolis made strong pleas in behalf of the Indiana city, they could not induce the convention to move the general offices.

AGED CONVICT FREED

Will Come to Ohio to Seek Relatives He Shielded From Shame.

Fort Madison, Ia., May 14.—James R. Saunders, alias William B. Glyndon, was released from the pen here by pardon of the governor, after serving 31 years for the alleged murder of a 14-year-old girl in Grundy county. Saunders served a longer term than any other man ever sent to the prison, and is now hale and hearty at 71 years.

He was a sharpshooter in an Ohio regiment in the civil war and was granted a soldier's pension since his incarceration, during which time he has saved $1,800.

He came of a prominent eastern Ohio family, and has all these years hidden his family name beyond that of Glyndon, the family not knowing his whereabouts to this day. He expects soon to go to Ohio to look up his relatives.

COMMERCE LAW IS NOT SATISFACTORY

Business Men Urge Taft to Recommend Changes.

Washington, May 14.—A committee representing the National Industrial league, composed of hundreds of business organizations throughout the country, called on President Taft and urged him to recommend to congress next winter important changes in the act to regulate commerce.

The committee is headed by J. C. Lincoln of St. Louis, and was introduced to the president by Representative Townsend of Michigan. Three amendments are advocated by the industrial league. The first is to give the interstate commerce commission power to suspend an increased rate by the railroads before it goes into effect. The second is to give the shipper the right to route his freight according to the quickest and most suitable way, instead of permitting the roads to send the matter in any direction they desire. The third is to hold the roads responsible for errors of rate quotations. The president said he would consider the various propositions.

FARMERS TO TAKE HAND

Decide to Store Wheat Until They Think Prices Right.

Springfield, Mo., May 14.—A plan to construct a chain of warehouses in the grain producing territory for the purpose of holding wheat for high prices was indorsed here by the mass meeting of the grain growers and cattle growers' branch of the National Farmers' union. It is believed by delegates in attendance that farmers by next season will be prepared to handle a large per cent of their crops in this way.

SENATE PLACES DUTY ON IRON

Party Lines Are Obliterated on Final Vote.

BAILEY SOUNDS WARNING NOTE

Tells Republicans They Are Sleeping Over Volcano and That Eruption Will Take Place at Next Election Unless Drastic Measures Are Taken to Curb Power of Combinations. Advocates Prison Sentences For Violators of Anti-Trust Laws.

Washington, May 14.—By a vote of 61 to 24 the senate adopted the recommendation of the finance committee for a duty of 25 cents a ton on iron ore, the action coming after a day spent in heated discussion of the iron schedule. The house had placed that article on the free list, while the present law levies a duty of 40 cents per ton. In taking this vote party lines were annihilated, as 17 Democrats voted aye with the Republicans and 12 Republicans voted no with the Democrats

During the day Senator Bailey, in announcing that he proposed to vote for the duty on iron ore as a revenue measure, declared that such action did not affect the prosperity of the United States Steel corporation, and added that even if it did there was a better way to deal with that organization, which was by an enforcement of the anti-trust law against it. He declared that he expected to see this law enforced, and he expressed confidence that eventually the officers of the steel corporation would either be in the penitentiary or fugitives from justice.

"Just put one of these malefactors of great wealth in the penitentiary, and you will see the anti-trust law enforced without further violations," said Mr. Bailey. "Send one of these men who may be found violating either the interstate commerce law or the anti-trust law to the penitentiary and you will stop these violations by others. You can not do it with fines, because when the court fines a trust, the trust fines the people, and as long as the punishment is measured in dollars and cents they will continue to violate the law. Men take the chance of pecuniary loss in the hope of realizing a greater pecuniary gain. Send one of them to the penitentiary and it will work like magic."

Millionaires Fear Prison.

"The millionaire," continued Mr. Bailey, who was receiving the rapt attention of senators on both sides of the chamber, "values one thing more than his fortune, and that is his liberty. He does not love justice. He does not love the peace of mind for which others struggle. But he loves his liberty."

Referring to the dissensions in the Democratic party following the issuing of bonds by President Cleveland, Mr. Bailey declared that the Republican party is now even more rent by internal discord than was the Democratic party at that time.

"When you call the roll here," said Mr. Bailey. "You find two or three Democrats agreeing with you. They are doing their duty as they understand it. But while you find two or three Democrats in agreement with you we find 13 or 14 of your membership agreeing with us. You should be admonished for this and see that your lease of power is not so strong as you think it is. You are sleeping on a volcano, and in the next election there will come an eruption."

For the first time there was a suggestion looking to the fixing of a day for a vote, but it came to naught because of objection from Senator Beveridge.

ENTER STRONG PROTEST

Tin Workers Tell Congress About Iniquitous Drawback.

Detroit, Mich., May 14.—The "drawback" feature of the tin plate schedule in the pending tariff bill was the subject of a protest sent to Washington by the annual convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, now in session here

In the protest the "drawback" provision is characterized as "an injustice which must be apparent to all who desire the successful perpetuation of this most important industry, that has been made the football of all tariff legislation since the inception of the industry in the United States."

Mars' Polar Cap Disappears.

Boston, May 14.—Rifts in the south polar cap of Mars were reported by Professor Percival Lowell from his observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz. Professor Lowell said that two rifts were observed, one in longitude 350 and the other in longitude 240. The phenomenon was followed by a disappearance of the entire cap, which is believed to be of snow.

Jailbreakers Captured.

Savannah, Ga., May 14.—After being trailed day after day by dogs through the swamps of Wayne county, two of the three negroes who escaped from the county jail at Jessup, Ga., after almost killing Deputy Sheriff Madray, were captured and brought to Savannah to escape lynching.

SEES SILVER LINING

Judge Gary Says Sun of Prosperity Will Soon Shine For All.

Gary, Ind., May 14.—In a speech delivered at a luncheon tendered him by the Gary Commercial club, Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation, voiced his belief that the country is now recovering fully from the effects of panic, and that the return of prosperity is now in sight. He said:

"Upon the business future of this place and of the country generally will depend to a greater or lesser extent the development of our great steel works at this place. We have not been so prosperous during the past 18 months as we were before that time We have been traveling along in a cloud of mist more or less. Conditions have been uncertain, and no one could say definitely what the future might be. But the clouds are lifting, the mists are clearing away, and we shall soon see that after all the sun of prosperity is shining just as brightly as ever. In my judgment we will soon be on the high road to prosperity."

TALKS TO BANKERS

MacVeagh Says Prosperity Will Come With Good Tariff Law.

New York, May 14.—"The completion of a tariff bill satisfactory to the people of the country will bring to the United States a reasonable, rational and, we hope, a permanent prosperity," said Franklin MacVeagh, secretary of the treasury, at a private dinner given at the Union League club in his honor by George S. Terry, assistant treasurer of the United States, at New York. The guests included 30 bank presidents and representatives of the larger banking institutions of New York city.

REWARD FOR LYNCHERS

Mississippi Negro Victim of Mob's Unwarranted Wrath.

Summitt, Miss., May 14.—Without having committed a crime of any kind, so far as known, John Rist, a negro, was lynched here, being strung up to a tree in the center of the town.

A mass meeting of citizens denounced the hanging of Rist as a murder, and offered a reward for the capture of the murderers. The incident is shrouded in complete mystery. This is a small town and any unusual noise would have awakened the residents, but there was no disturbance.

DENOUNCES HIBERNIANS

Cardinal Logue Says Ancient Order Full of Pests.

Dublin, May 14.—Cardinal Logue has issued a strong condemnation of certain practices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. He says that in some places the Hibernian society is a pest and practices cruel tyranny, its members indulging in drinking and dancing, and compelling people by force to join the organization by threats to boycott and even by personal violence. He forbids the priests from this time on to give absolution to those guilty of such practices.

Will Not Wed Nephew.

New York, May 14.—Concerning the report that an engagement existed between herself and Henry E. Huntington, her late husband's nephew, Mrs. Collis P. Huntington said: "You can say for me that I have no intention of marrying my nephew. Furthermore, you may say that I have no intention of marrying anybody."

Mrs. Fred Hoch and Mrs. Daniel Brady, of Espyville, were callers here Tuesday.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

David O. Ives, now of New York, has been appointed by the Merchants' association of Boston to head its new board of transportation, which, it is hoped, will solve the transit problems of the Hub.

Miss Mary Proctor, the astronomer, has just returned from England, where she has been giving a series of lectures. She brought a large number of foreign postcards for the Sunshine society to send as Easter cards to shut-ins.

The success of a prominent English firm of contractors, Sir John Jackson, limited, in beating one of the greatest firms in Germany in competition for the contract of building the railroad in the Andes, between Chili and Bolivia, has much pleased the English press.

A contributor has had the curiosity to look up Mr. J. B. Reid's "Burns Concordance" and measure the amount of space devoted to certain words. He found that Burns uses the word "heart" more than any other, the quotations under this word filling no fewer than six closely printed columns.

Archbishop J. J. Hardy writes from Manila to Father Lambert, of the Freeman's Journal, New York City: "Not only did I never issue a pastoral on the eve of any election, but I have never treated in any pastoral nor even touched upon or adverted to the subject of the duties of citizens at the polls."

Cole Younger, ex-bandit, out on parole granted by the governor of Minnesota, has taken to the lecture platform in Oklahoma. "A young man never made a more serious mistake than to suppose that the world owes him a living. It doesn't," says Younger. "The understanding with the governor of Minnesota was that I might do as I pleased as long as I didn't do it in Minnesota," the bandit declares.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Live News Notes From All Parts of the Buckeye State.

Columbus, O., May 14. — Mrs. Josephine Mountstephens, aged 64, who claims she is the wife of an English peer, and who now makes her home in Columbus, is in destitute circumstances and has made an appeal to Mayor Bond for aid. Mrs. Mountstephens told the mayor she had been employed during the winter as a scrubwoman at the High Street theater, but that she is now out of a job. She said she was married 30 years ago to George Mountstephens in Grand Rapids, Mich., and that he later deserted her and returned to his former home in England. She declared that several years later she saw her husband's picture in a New York paper giving his name as Lord Mountstephens and describing him as one of the rich noblemen of England.

Sealers Meet and Organize.

Columbus, O., May 14.—City and county sealers of weights and measures from all over the state convened at the Great Southern hotel for sessions expected to continue through today. The meeting was called by Professor B. F. Thomas of the department of physics at Ohio State university, who is the state sealer. The sealers immediately effected an organization and began the discussion of matters of interest to their business. It is the expectation to go before the next session of the legislature and ask for more stringent laws extending the powers of the sealers and setting more severe penalties for violation of the full measure and weight laws.

Scramble For Newman's Job.

Columbus, O., May 14.—At the session of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen it was announced that four candidates are in the field to succeed Vice Grand Master Newman of Denver, who will not be a candidate again on account of ill health. They are Parkeson of Texas, Adams of Kansas City, Smith of Denver and Agee of Springfield, Ill. The office pays $4,000 a year.

Mad Cat Attacks Child.

Wauseon, O., May 14.—While playing in the yard Lou Sidlers, aged 2, was attacked by a neighbor's cat and severely bitten on the fingers and hands. It was with difficulty that the feline was driven off. The child's hand began to swell immediately. The cat was killed and its head sent to the state chemist at Columbus, O., to determine whether it was afflicted with rabies.

Fatally Hurt In Sleep.

Bowling Green, O., May 14.—Dreaming that he was about to catch a horse which ran away with a milk wagon, Cloyce Munn, 30, a butcher, opened a window of his second story bedroom and stepped out. He was picked up in an unconscious condition shortly afterward, his father hearing the thud as he struck the ground. He is fatally hurt.

Farmers Hunt Mad Dog.

Newark, O., May 14.—Hundreds of men, armed with clubs and guns, are beating over the northwestern part of Licking county to kill an immense shepherd dog which, having gone mad, frightfully bit and tore the two children of Melville Fisher, a farmer, near Croton.

Railroad Raises Wages.

Canton, O., May 14.—The wage scale for motormen and conductors of the N. O. T. system from Cleveland to Uhrichsville has been raised. The maximum rate is now 25 cents an hour, where formerly it was 24 cents for interurban work.

Prominent Citizen Dies Suddenly.

Piqua, O., May 14.—Former Mayor John Morris of Troy dropped dead on the street of that town. He served as state senator for two terms, Mayor of Troy for four administrations, and was first exalted ruler of the Elks. He was about 70 years old.

Kermit Kills Giraffe.

Nairobi, British East Africa, May 14.—Not to be outdone by his distinguished father, Kermit Roosevelt has placed to the credit of his marksmanship a bull giraffe.

They will reside on Belmont street where the groom has prepared a home.

THE RESCINDING OF A RECENT RULING

Postion of the Traction People Finds Support.

The recent ruling of the Ohio railroad commission to the effect that all stops outside of municipalities must be rated on the tariff schedule by mileage, has been rescinded as a result of the conference of the committee of interurban men, of which Manager George Whysall, of the Columbus, Delaware & Marion company, was chairman.

It has been customary to charge a passenger, who gets off at an accommodation stop, the fare to the next regular station. Complaint had been made that this practice amounted to collecting excess fare, but the interurban officials convinced the members of the state commission that the charge of excessiveness was untrue.

They will reside with the groom's father, David Lloyd, at his home south of here.

THE FIRST OF SERIES OF CONTESTS GIVEN

An Affair Under the Auspices of the W. C. T. U.

MRS. JAMES FIES SERVES AS DIRECTOR

A Very Large Crowd of Patrons Enjoys an Excellent Program—Miss Myrtle Smith Wins in Oratorical Contest and Miss Irene Neally in the Musical Contest.

The first of a series of oratorical and musical contests, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. and the direct supervision of Mrs. James Fies, was held in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. building, Tuesday evening. The auditorium was crowded to its seating capacity, chairs being used to accommodate some of the patrons. The affair was a contest for silver medals and was a success in every way.

The program was opened with the invocation by Rev. J. P. Currin. After a piano solo by Miss Lottie Campbell, Blanch Heffly and Paul Coe, two of the oratorical contestants, delivered their orations. The former took for her subject "In the Kegs," speaking with excellent effect. "Crime of Crimes" was the title of a well-delivered oration by Paul Coe. Miss Myrtle Smith, the winner of the medal in the oratorical contest, had for her subject "Who Killed Joe's Baby." She spoke in clear forceful tones, her elocution being very fine. Miss Ruth Sprague delivered an excellent oration on "The Widow and Her Only Child." William Packard, the last of the contestants, had for his title "Shall We Win." All of the orations were liberally applauded and were delivered in an excellent manner. Miss Morrey, J. C. Thomas and Rev. J. P. Currin were the judges in this contest and the task of selecting the winner was a difficult one. H. L. Frank presented Miss Smith the medal, making a short talk in which he highly complimented the work of the contestants.

Misses Gaynelle Shaw, Goldia Gelbaugh and Irene Neally were the contestants in the musical part of the entertainment. Miss Shaw rendered "Sing On" in beautiful tones, her selection and rendition being well received by the audience. "Carmene" was rendered in excellent voice by Miss Gelbaugh. Miss Irene Neally, the winner of the prize in this contest, sang "May Morning." She possessses a rich, clear voice and sang with perfect harmony. The judges in this contest were Mrs. C. F. Church, O. E. D. Barron and Walter Moore. Mrs. L. S. Langley, who has been directing the contestants in music, presented the medal to Miss Neally.

Incidental to the numbers by the contestants on the program, Miss Campbell contributed a piano solo and L. B. McNeal a selection on the flute. Both responded to encores.

MAD COLT CHEWS THE FLESH OFF ITS LEGS

A Frightful Case of Hydrophobia at Martel.

THE ANIMAL IS SHOT TO END SUFFERINGS

Colt and Other Animals Bitten by a Mad Dog at the Time Rinehart Troupf and Little Arthur Bauer Are Bitten—Man and Child Return from Pasteur Institute.

Martel, May 13.—[Special.]—A yearling colt owned by W. E. Bauer, residing a mile west of here, while afflicted by hydrophobia, Wednesday night, bit and practically chewed all the flesh off its limbs. A veterinary surgeon was called from Caledonia and he ordered the animal shot.

Three weeks ago the yearling was bitten by a dog owned by Mr. Bauer. The canine had the rabies and bit several pigs, a cow and another colt in addition to the one shot. Rinehart Troupf was also bitten by the dog, as was six-year-old Arthur Bauer, his nephew. On the advice of physicians they were taken to the Pasteur institute in Chicago for treatment. Monday, they returned home and are now believed to be out of danger.

Last Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baldinger went to Chicago, taking their four-year-old son, Edgar, to the Pasteur institute for treatment. The dog owned by Mr. Bauer had bitten a dog owned by Mr. Baldinger, and the latter's dog was his baby's playfellow. The child was not bitten, but got some of the froth from the dog's mouth into his own mouth. Doctors advised the parents to take the child to Chicago for treatment as a precaution against hydrophobia.

The other animals bitten on the Bauer farm are now being closely guarded, as it is now feared that they will all develop the terrible disease.

WITH $15,000 AND HIS PRETTY BRIDE

Shoe Shiner Is Taking a Trip to Italy.

New York, May 13.—With $15,000 and a pretty American wife, the former the result of nine years of shining shoes at the Waldorf and St. Regis hotels, Donato Digilio is on his way to Italy, proud to be an American citizen. He says he would rather be an American citizen and shine the shoes of fellow citizens, than be the son of the king of Italy.

Digilio's $15,000 came entirely, he says, in the form of tips from men and women whose shoes he shined. Among his customers he boasts Charles M. Schwab, the steel magnate; Count De Sagan and Madame Gould, and a hundred or more Wall street financiers.

Recently Digilio married a young American woman, and his trip to Italy is in the nature of a honeymoon.

"I will not stay long in Italy," says Digilio. "I love Italy—but she does not make millionaires."

TWO MEN ARE ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF FIGHTING

Sam Elias and Jerry O'Conner Before the Mayor.

THE FIGHT CAUSES SOME EXCITEMENT

Each of the Men Is Fined Thursday—Charles Neufer, a Ladies' Tailor, Is Arrested on a Serious Charge—Wanted at Bellefontaine for Cashing Worthless Checks.

Sam Elias, interested in a candy store on east Center street, and Jerry O'Conner were arrested, Wednesday evening, by Captain Bond and Officer Babcock and locked in the city prison on a charge of fighting. Officer Babcock later filed an affidavit against the men charging them with assault on each other.

The trouble caused considerable excitement, shortly after 7 o'clock Wednesday evening. Elias is alleged to have ordered O'Conner away from the front of Macken & Smith's store, where O'Conner was waiting for a car. The latter refused to go and Elias threatened to whip him. O'Conner took up his suit-case and walked to the curb. Elias followed and after a few works the men came to blows. Although Elias had the better of the match, he ran into the store and returned with a long knife, it is said, to assault O'Conner. Dr. J. S. Lunger happened by at the time and prevented Elias from attacking O'Conner.

O'Conner pleaded guilty to the charge of assault when arraigned before the mayor, next morning, and was fined $2.50 and the costs amounting to the same amount. He paid and was released. When Elias was arraigned he claimed to be unable to understand anything that was said to him. He denied having come out with a knife, saying it was a club. He also denied having struck O'Conner. His brother was called to police station as an interpreter and later the prisoner pleaded guilty to the charge against him. He was fined five dollars and the costs which amounted to $2.50.

Charles Neufer, a ladies' tailor, was arrested in this city, Wednesday afternoon, for the police department of Bellefontaine. Neufer is wanted at that place for cashing an alleged worthless draft and deposit check.

Neufer was soliciting orders when he was taken into custody by the local police. He has been employed in the city for some time.

Neufer is alleged to have gone to Columbus Grove recently and passed two checks on a local bank amounting to $160. He took a draft for $90 of the money, a deposit slip and some cash. At Bellefontaine he tried to cash the draft at a bank, but the bankers refused to accept it unless he secured some person to identify him. He left the bank and returned a short time later with a man who had visited his shop last week and had contracted to sell Neufer and his partner some signs. The banker was informed that Neufer owned a shop in this city as Neufer had informed the sign man when he called here. The draft was cashed and found to be worthless as the checks had been returned to the bank at Columbus Grove.

Neufer thought he was wanted for passing a check for $36. He stated, however, that he intended straightening out this check. The check in mention was drawn on David Small and endorsed by Stephen Johnson. Neufer indorsed the check and then had a girl endorse it and cash it for him. He claimed he had received it for making a suit. No parties by that name are known in the city. However, if Neufer settles this as he agreed, no charge will be made against him.

Neufer is married and resides on George street. His young wife is heart-broken over the affair.

GOES FROM SMITHY TO GRAND OPERA

Pretty Twenty-Year-Old Anna Case To Sing at Metropolitan.

New York, May 13.—From shoeing horses in the dingy little smithy of her father in South Branch, New Jersey, pretty twenty-year-old Anna Case will go to the Metropolitan opera-house next season. The girl blacksmith has been engaged to sing Marguerita in Faust; Juliette in Romeo and Juliet, and other high soprano soles. The new singer is the daughter of a typical village blacksmith and from the time she was fifteen years old she shod horses until some of her friends who heard her singing at the forge, induced her to train her voice, and last week she was heard at a concert in Philadelphia by Andreas Dippel, manager of the Metropolitan opera-house. Just before Dippel sailed for Europe last week, he closed a contract with Miss Case for next season.

Half Minute Store Talk.

Lots of people have an idea that standing back of our shoes is "risky" business, but it is not. We don't sell "risky" shoes. Ours are good shoes and there is no risk in either buying or selling that kind.

ROOSTERS PRONE TO CROW OUT OF TIME

Have Brought Themselves into Disrepute at Washington.

Washington, May 13.—Roosters who have brought themselves into disrepute by awakening at an hour in the morning not recognized in official society as an hour for rising, weary legislators and other national officials, are to be banished from the district. While an old ordinance that regulated the keeping of fowls in the district has been found invalid, the corporation council and health officer are hard at work upon a new ordinance that will make it impossible for the chanticleer to butt in on tariff dreams and visions of working for the people's interests.

ROYAL ARCH DEGREE GIVEN CANDIDATES

A Meeting of Royal Arch Masons at Temple.

THE ATTENDANCE EXTREMELY GOOD

Canby Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Discusses Matter of Buying a Lot. The Red Men Hold a Regular Business Session—A Gathering of the Druids—Secret Society Notes.

At a meeting of Marion Chapter, No. 62, Royal Arch Masons, at the Masonic temple, Tuesday evening, six candidates were given the royal arch degree and some business of interest to the members was given attention.

The attendance was very large.

The proposition to buy twenty-seven and one-half feet of the old First Baptist church property, on east Center street was discussed at considerable length at a regular meeting of Canby Lodge, No. 51, Knights of Pythias, Tuesday night. It was finally laid on the table without any action being taken.

Lime City, Council, No. 206, Jr. O. U. A. M., held a largely-attended meeting, Wednesday evening, and a great deal of business was transacted. It was decided to procure uniforms for the ball team within the next two weeks. Rollo Prettyman has been elected manager and captain and will arrange a schedule for the team. The schedule is to include teams representing the lodge at other points as well as local games. Another matter of importance was the discussion of arrangements for the entertainment of the past councilors, who are to hold a meeting here, May 30, for the purpose of organizing.

Although these officers have had several meetings no organization has ever been perfected. Two candidates were given the work.

Two candidates were given the degree at the meeting of Ithamar Court, No. 8, Tribe of Ben Hur, Wednesday evening. The attendance was quite large and considerable business of importance was transacted. A social session followed the meeting.

The esquire rank will be conferred on five candidates at a regular meeting of Marion Lodge, No. 402, Knights of Pythias, Friday night.

The Ladies of the Maccabees held a regular meeting, Wednesday afternoon, and made arrangements to hold a social in two weeks.
